Congress May Be Called Into Special Session

President Says Call May Be Necessary On Economic Aid To Europe Program

NO SPEECHMAKING TOURS BY TRUMAN

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 10.—President Truman announced today that he will call a special session of Congress this fall if legislation is necessary to put the Marshall plan for economic aid to Europe in effect.

The president told a news conference that he must await the outcome of the Paris conference of European nations to determine whether a special session will be necessary.

Mr. Truman said he does not see any necessity now for a special session, but that he will issue such a call if developments on the Marshall plan warrant.

The president said he will meet with Democratic and Republican congressional leaders Monday for a lengthy discussion of the European situation.

Seeks To Admit D. P.s
He said the main topic he wishes to discuss is action on his request that this country's doors be opened to "a substantial number" of the one million displaced persons now in the occupation zones of western Europe.

The president denied reports that he was summoning the congressional leaders to the White House for the main purpose of discussing the Marshall plan.

He said, however, that if the matter is brought up in connection with the discussion on displaced persons, he may go into it.

The president ruled out, for the present any political speechmaking

Masked Gunmen Postpone Man's Trip To Native Athens

CHICAGO, July 10.—(INS)—Harry Margaris' long-planned trip to his native Athens was indefinitely postponed today by two masked gunmen who robbed him shortly before he was to take off from Chicago municipal airport.

Margaris recently sold his restaurant so he might be free to visit his relatives in Greece and was carrying $4,310 when he was held up at the home of a friend, Louis Logisios, 32.

The bandits appeared as Margaris, Logisios and another friend, James Eleades, 41, started to get into Logisios' car.

Detective Simon Kennedy said the fact that the men made no effort to rob Margaris' friends pointed to their exact knowledge of his plans.

Actress Slain

Police announced that the murder apparently was "a crime of passion, committed by someone Mrs. Manning knew, not a stranger."

Police Question 150 Cafe Society Friends Of Actress Murdered In New York

By JAMES WALSH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, July 10.—Over 150 cafe society friends of murdered blonde actress Sheila Manning were being questioned by police today as the hunt for the kiss-and-kill stranger widened.

The former silent screen player and more recently a radio actress listed many middle-aged men in six address books. Police already questioned more than 70 of them.

Mrs. Manning, known as Bessie True in her film days of the 1930s, was said to be about 45. She was still slim and attractive.

Hunt For Man

Her nude body was discovered lying between twin beds by a part-time maid. A bed sheet was tightly wound around her neck and an orange bath towel thrust down her throat.

Police were hunting for a man who presumably had spent some time with the actress before murdering her. Police Commissioner Arthur W. Wallander took charge of the investigation personally and was particularly interested in finding out who had been in the actress' apartment.

Three Are Held As Suspects In Hotel Robberies

PITTSBURGH, July 10.—(INS)—Pittsburgh police today charged three men, one of them a suspect in the robbery of a Cleveland Western Union office, with the holdups of three Pittsburgh hotels and several other business establishments.

The trio was captured in two Pittsburgh hotels on the tip of one of the girl victims of a robbery.

They were identified as Ronald Tucker, alias Alfred Pittman, Jr., 23, of Brooklyn, W. Va.; Lee Ramsey, 20, of Jefferson City, Tenn.; and Alexander Savage, 30, of Pittsburgh.

Police quoted Tucker as saying that he and Savage robbed the three hotels within six days, and also robbed two Western Union offices and twice robbed a currency exchange.

Tucker, when first arrested, whipped out a pistol and pressed it against the abdomen of Detective Edward A. Schuster. He was disarmed before he could fire.

Lewis May Seek New Hard Coal Wage Contract

Expected To Seek New Agreement Similar To That In Soft Coal Industry

MOST SOFT COAL MINES WORKING

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(INS)—John L. Lewis may soon follow up his victory in the soft coal case by seeking a similar new wage contract covering 72,000 anthracite miners.

Labor observers believed today that the UMW president will act within a few days under the 30-day reopening clause in the existing agreement covering Pennsylvania's hard coal fields.

Reason for Speed

One reason for speed would be to sign a new contract before the Taft-Hartley law's restriction on the union shop and other curbs of the statute go into effect August 22.

Lewis won a new one-year union shop clause from the soft coal producers. Under it, any worker hired in the mines must join the UMW within 30 days after his employment.

After August 22, however, the National Labor Relations board must poll workers to determine if they

No Fatal Motoring Accidents In June In Lawrence County

Past Month Proves Safer Than June 1946, It Is Reported By State Highway Police

June proved a safer month for travel on the highways of Lawrence County, than did the companion month in 1946, it was reported today by the Pennsylvania state police for this area.

In June 1947, there were no fatalities on the highways of the county, while in June 1946, four were killed, two in automobile accidents and two pedestrians.

Other traffic figures released by the state police show that during the past month, there were ten injury accidents in the county involving a total of 18 injured persons. Eleven accidents were reported that did property damage over $50 while one accident occurred that caused damage less than $50. Total property damage done during the 1947 period was $6,455.

Complete figures for June 1946, show that there were eight injury accidents in which 27 persons were injured. Six accidents resulted in damage over $50 while three caused less than $50 damage. Property damage in the 1946 period amounted to $6,876.

Three main causes for the 1947 accidents were summarized as follows: Failing to drive on the right hand side of the road; too fast for conditions and reckless driving.

Winchell Declares 'Flying Saucers' Being Developed

NEW YORK, July 10.—(INS)—Walter Winchell, New York Daily Mirror columnist, wrote today that despite vigorous denials by army and navy officials the flying saucers actually are flying wings being developed by the U. S. Navy.

Winchell said that they can land at a very low speed—making them good for carriers, and that there "is said to be an entire squadron at Muroc Field, Calif."

He added:

"The above is not rumor—it is a fact, according to 'insiders' who were promised that the source would be protected."

Hungary Rejects Invitation To Paris Parley

Joins Four Other Soviet Satellites In Rejecting Bid To Marshall Plan Conference

SEVENTEEN NATIONS TO ATTEND PARLEY

(BULLETIN)

LONDON, July 10.—(INS)—Hungary joined four other Soviet satellite nations today in rejecting the joint British-French invitation to participate in the Paris conference to institute the Marshall aid program for Europe.

The Budapest government declined the bid in an official announcement.

Hungary's rejection followed a fresh charge by Soviet quarters that both Britain and France are carrying out the orders of Washington in plans for Saturday's parley on the Marshall aid program.

The Russians, through the Soviet Tass agency, charged anew that the Western Allies are seeking to split Europe.

Other States Reject

The removed charges came after three key states in the Soviet bloc—Poland, Yugoslavia and Romania—turned down invitations to the July 12 Paris parley.

The rejected invitations were balanced by three Scandinavian countries—Norway, Sweden and Denmark—who signified their willingness to attend.

Italian Ambassador Aids Marshall Plan

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(INS)—Italian Ambassador Alberto Tarchiani today described the Marshall plan for European reconstruction as a "bridge" between East and West in which Italy intends to cooperate.

Tarchiani said in an interview that the Marshall plan was a "factor towards better European cooperation," rather than "an instrument of policy aiming to create adverse blocs or divisions among countries."

He added:

"In such collective action for European reconstruction Italy sees the only means to overcome the present alarming economic situation on the continent."

The Italian ambassador said that the great bulk of the Italian press and all of Italy's political parties have pledged their support to the plan.

Repudiating statements by Soviet Russia that the U. S. project is the forerunner of a western bloc, Tarchiani stated flatly that Italy re-

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(INS)—Rep. Hartley (R. N. J.), indicated today that he may press for a justice department inquiry into the new wage contract negotiated by John L. Lewis and the soft coal industry.

The New Jersey congressman said he was "waiting to see whether the justice department will act of its own volition." He added:

President Sets Stage For Second Tax Cut Clash

Truman Announcement Of Another Veto Forces Issue On Congress Again

MEASURE CALLED BEFORE SENATE

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(INS)—President Truman set the stage for another showdown with the GOP Congress today by announcing that he will veto the new Jan. 1 tax reduction bill.

His announcement, carried immediately to a conference of democratic Senators, brought a prediction from minority leader Barkley (D. Ky.), that an "overwhelming majority" of Democrats would vote to sustain the president.

The four billion dollar tax relief measure was called up in the Senate today, with GOP leaders claiming that they need only three more votes to override a veto.

Sen. Millikin (R. Colo.), Senate finance chairman, opened the tax bill debate by telling the Senate that "this is the first time in history that a president has vetoed a bill in advance of a time it was presented to him."

Tragic Mistake

Sen. Johnston (D. Colo.), who voted against the first GOP tax cut bill but favors the present legislation, said of Mr. Truman's announcement:

"I think he's making a tragic mistake. I'm going to vote to override his veto."

Sen. Byrd (D. Va.), who attended the Democratic conference and has switched his stand to the extent of leading the fight to pass the bill, said the president's statement had not changed his mind.

"I'm just where I stood before," he declared. "I'll vote to override."

Truman Asserts He Will Veto New Tax Reduction

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(INS)—President Truman bluntly asserted today that he will again veto the new tax reduction bill now before the senate.

The president told a news conference that he did not see any reason why this attitude toward the Republican sponsored tax-reduction program should change.

He said if the congress sends him the bill similar to the one he vetoed June 16 he will veto it again.

Mr. Truman thus confirmed an earlier announcement of a second veto by Sen. Barkley (D. Ky.).

Republicans Shown By Poll
To Favor New York

SENATOR TAFT IS CLOSELY PURSUING

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(N. Y. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 10. — Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, was disclosed today to have won a poll of Congressional Democrats as the Republican who would be "hardest to beat" in the 1948 Presidential election.

The poll was conducted by the magazine, Pageant. While the Democrats may fear Vandenberg the most, Republicans on Capitol Hill still report Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, as the present favorite for their nomination next year.

Among Republicans, Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, continues in second place. Former Gov. Harold Stassen, of Minnesota, also has his Republican followers.

However, many Republicans talk about a "dark horse." The names mentioned most frequently in this category are House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, of Massachusetts, and General Dwight D. Eisenhower, of Kansas.

The Pageant poll drew answers from 119 out of 223 Democrats in the House and Senate. They were asked:

"As a Democrat, which Republican would you least like to see nominated for the Presidency next year? In other words, which man would be hardest to beat?"

The Democrats voted: Vandenberg, 58; Dewey, 18; Gov. Earl Warren, of California, 11; Taft, 10; Sen. John W. Bricker, of Ohio, 9; Stassen, 9; Martin, 3, and Eisenhower, 1.

Miss Lela Lewis of East Long avenue, and Miss Melvina Davies of East Moody avenue, have returned from a visit with relatives in Pittsburgh.

DEWEY DRIVE MAKING GAINS

City City last night from Sapulpa, Okla., was credited with stealing a march on his rivals for the GOP nomination by "beating the bushes" a year in advance.

Supporters of other aspirants to the GOP presidential nomination, such as Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio and former Minnesota Governor Stassen, were represented as believing that their men should take a page from the Dewey book and make extensive tours of the nation.

Democrats were pictured as concerned about the Dewey maneuvering to the point where party leaders have urged President Truman to travel across the country this summer.

Dewey will have few minutes to spare today, prior to his late evening departure for Salt Lake City, Utah, where he will attend the annual governors' conference.

In addition to behind-the-scenes talks with party leaders in a penthouse hotel suite frequently occupied by President Truman, the 1944 Republican presidential nominee was faced with a full schedule of public appearances.

They included a stag breakfast with political leaders, followed by a brief conference with members of the Young Republicans, Inc. Dewey will lunch with National Committeeman Borak T. Mattingly of Missouri and Harry Darby of Kansas.

His program will be concluded by a public reception, arranged by Republican women.

Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential candidate, was expected for the luncheon, as was Gov. Frank Carlson of Kansas.

HUNGARY REJECTS INVITATION TO PARIS PARLEY

others who already have answered in the affirmative, insured the participation, including Britain and France, of 17 powers at the talks to seek European rehabilitation under the Marshall plan.

Create Western Bloc

A Tass agency dispatch broadcast by the Moscow radio asserted it now is clear that Britain and France plan to utilize the Paris meeting to create a western bloc with the avowed purpose of establishing a group to carry out the policy of certain American circles striving to place European countries under their control.

Tass contested statements by British Foreign Secretary Bevin that he more than anyone else is striving to preserve friendly relations between European countries. Tass asserted:

"In fact it is Bevin, imbued with Churchillian hostility toward the Soviet Union, who is striving more than anyone else to create an atmosphere of isolation of the U. S. S. R."

It is now clear that a number of European countries will not consent to participate in the conference.

"On the other hand, organizers of this bloc are doing everything possible to involve Western Germany, at whose expense Anglo-American and French dealers wish to patch up their gaps."

Romania's decision was announced after a cabinet meeting which also decided to authorize the foreign minister to apply for admission of Romania into the United Nations.

Hungary remained among the nations undecided on whether to attend. Final action is expected in Budapest today at a special cabinet council.

override the two. He conceded there "may be others," but added:

"The overwhelming majority of this conference will vote to sustain the president. I think the chances are more favorable that the veto will be sustained than that it will be overridden."

Barkley said the president told him that if the tax bill comes to him in "its present form," it will be vetoed.

In reply to a question, the minority leader added:

"That doesn't suggest that he would approve the bill if it came to him in the form of the Lucas substitute."

The substitute offered by Sen. Lucas (D. Ill.) would supplant the GOP 30 to 10 and one-half tax reduction scale with a pattern of increased personal exemptions and cuts in surtax rates.

Barkley said that in view of the president's advance announcement he does not "see any occasion for delay" once the bill reaches the White House.

Asked about reports that atomic secrets had been stolen, the President said that Sen. Hickenlooper (R) Iowa, had explained the situation clearly and that he is willing to accept the senator's explanation as he gave it to congress.

He did not seem perturbed about the reports.

The President declined to comment on the new coal contract negotiated between the United Mine Workers and the soft coal operators.

In response to a question, Mr. Truman said he knew of no study being undertaken by the government to determine the effect of the new contract of prices.

Asked about a statement purportedly made by Roger C. Schlauter, whom the President opposed for reelection to congress in the Missouri primary last fall, that a scandal was about to break over the Truman administration, the President laughed heartily.

He said that considering the source of the remark he isn't worried a bit.

palace at noon to take part in a memorial commemoration at Westminster Abbey.

But the couple joined later in a luncheon with the king and queen at Buckingham palace.

Cheered By Crowds

The heress—apparent to the throne of Britain was cheered by crowds both when she left the palace and when she arrived at the abbey.

Her sparkling engagement ring gleamed as she waved to the applauding crowds.

Although the young naval lieutenant did not accompany her it was learned that the couple posed for official engagement pictures in the room of Buckingham palace earlier and both were depicted as radiantly happy.

Princess Elizabeth received the reply: "We are very, very happy."

On her visit to the abbey the princess wore a coffee colored suit with matching hat and brown and white shoes.

With the king, queen and princess were Queen Mother Mary, the Duchess of Kent and the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester, Prime Minister Attlee and cabinet members as well as members of the diplomatic service.

Many Congratulations

Buckingham palace's private post office was overwhelmed with congratulatory letters and additional clerks were called in to handle the mail and telegrams addressed to Elizabeth and the former Prince Philip of Greece.

Elizabeth was up early despite her late night stay at a party to read the letters from friends.

Palace officials emphasized that the marriage date, the honeymoon trip and the question of a title for Lieut. Mountbatten all are unsettled. But it seemed probable that the marriage will be in the fall and that the first portion of the honeymoon will take place in the English countryside.

It is believed that a country house will be loaned by friends of their majesties and that the couple will enjoy a brief holiday abroad.

Precautions Taken

At the same time it was emphasized that the greatest precautions are being taken to avoid striking a discordant note in Britain's grim economic situation, and there is a possibility that the couple will not go abroad until they journey with the king and queen next spring on an official visit to Australia.

It is regarded as certain that Princess Margaret, sister of Elizabeth, will be the chief bridesmaid, with the Hon. Pamela Mountbatten, Philip's cousin, another.

Authoritative sources said Elizabeth will retain the surname of Windsor and that any children will be princes and princesses of the Royal House of Windsor.

Court circles indicated that Elizabeth's wedding gown will be classical, with a long train woven of all-British material and having a priceless veil of Point de France lace loaned by Queen Mother Mary, the same as the princess' mother wore in 1923.

LEWIS MAY SEEK NEW HARD COAL WAGE CONTRACT

want such a contract provision. A majority of the workers must approve before a union shop can be granted.

Not Seized

The anthracite industry was not seized by the government last summer and has been operating under a private contract which granted the miners a five-cent a ton royalty for a welfare fund. Presumably, however, Lewis will now want to raise the royalty to the ten-cent figure agreed to by bituminous mine owners.

An estimated 95 per cent of the soft coal industry already has signed the new contract giving the miners $1.20 more in take-home earnings, a reduction in the work day from nine to eight hours, and many other benefits. Lewis will want the same advantages for the hard coal workers.

Southern coal producers, representing about 25 per cent of the nation's bituminous tonnage and employing 150,000 miners, agreed to accept the new contract yesterday. The south was the last major hold-out.

It was revealed that some 2,300 persons were arrested in Athens and its environs and at least 500 more in provincial areas in night-raids which quashed plans of communist guerrilla leaders to strike at the heart of the Greek government.

The majority of those arrested were deported immediately to the Island of Psitalia, near Athens, for safe keeping before ringleaders are put on trial on charges of treason.

THE PIONEER SPIRIT RETURNS

The announcement made by Greater New Castle Association President Ivor V. Davis on Wednesday, that local men had made a bid for the old Shenango tin plant is one of tremendous importance to this city.

It means that local men with local money are prepared to take over the plant, remodel it for multiple tenancy by small plants and thus provide jobs. It indicates an abiding faith in New Castle. It means that here are five men who are willing to stake their judgment and their money on the future of New Castle.

New Castle was made an industrial city by men of other days with the pioneer spirit. It recalls such former leaders as William W. Patterson, George Greer, David Jameson, the Reises, the Browns, the Bergers the Cunninghams, and others. They were men who were willing to take a chance and then fight through to success.

The five men, Mayor John F. Haven, Judge John G. Lamoree, Ivor V. Davis, Roger W. Rowland and Robert W. Cunningham have apparently taken to heart the words of Dr. C. S. Wyand, assistant to the president of Pennsylvania State College. In a recent address here he said, "nobody from the outside is going to come in and hand you anything. You will have to help yourselves."

These men are helping us all. If the government accepts the bid, they have a man sized job ahead of them, but they are accustomed to man sized jobs.

Their action in bidding upon the property shows the kind of leadership every city needs. Perhaps in the distant years they may realize a profit upon their venture. If so it will be a profit well merited, for with any profit that might accrue to them will come a profit a hundred fold to this city in the way of increased economic value, jobs, purchasing power and taxes.

It is to be devoutly hoped that the bid will be accepted. There are men unemployed in New Castle just now. For the most part they are men who are capable and willing and New Castle cannot afford to lose them.

Do something for ourselves? Here is a classic example of self help. It required vision and courage. It required faith and hope. It is the pioneer spirit returned to New Castle.

SNOW AT HOME

Kathleen Roan, a 17-year-old girl from Rhode Island, demonstrated a $4.32 homemade snow-making machine at Hayden Planetarium in New York City the other day and that wasn't all that she demonstrated.

The machine isn't much to look at. A big washtub rests in a wallboard casing packed with sawdust. Inside is a smaller tub. To make it snow, Kathleen puts ice and rock salt into the space between the tubs and waits for the temperature to fall below freezing. Then her little brother breathes gently into the smaller tub, creating a super-cooled cloud, and Kathleen shaves some dry ice into it, whereupon it snows.

So, with equipment available to anybody, Kathleen gets the same results as Vincent J. Schaefer, the first man ever to make it snow, achieved, with apparatus that cost several hundred dollars. As Schaefer said after seeing it work, it is "an example of the inherent simplicity of many of the phenomena related to the fundamental laws of the universe."

True. But that doesn't explain Kathleen. She had to have a lively interest in science or she wouldn't have read about the Schaefer snow-making technique when it was announced last November. She had to be enterprising, or she wouldn't have tried to build a snow-making machine to show at a school science fair. She had to be ingenious, or she wouldn't have succeeded.

So Kathleen demonstrated that someone possessing the necessary qualities could have made it snow in his basement years ago. There are still opportunities for the lone worker in this day of cooperative research in big laboratories financed with almost limitless funds.

WHILE YOU READ

In about the time it will take you to read this brief article, a fire will occur somewhere in the United States. Thousands of dollars worth of property will be destroyed. And it is very possible that someone will die a horrible death.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters states that a fire alarm is sent in every 53 seconds—and a fire breaks out every 57 seconds. Each day, the property loss runs into the millions, and several lives are lost. Finally, for each death, there are four injuries.

This is the record for an ordinary, "quiet day." On days when spectacular fires occur, the toll of death and destruction soars far beyond the average.

The fire that is in progress while you read this may be far away. But the next fire may be in your home or your place of business. Destructive fire has no favorites. It strikes without warning—and no property and no life is safe from it.

Fire is a terrible challenge to the American people. That challenge can be met only if all the people understand the causes of fire—and act accordingly. The alternative is an ever-increasing toll of death and destruction.

They Say

LONDON — Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council: "If the producers of the world do not expand production more quickly in the next three or four years, the whole opportunity of building a tolerable civilization may be lost."

DAYTON, Ohio—Orville Wright, co-inventor of the airplane, discusses flying discs: "It is more propaganda for war to stir up people and excite them to believe a foreign power has designs on this nation."

NEW YORK—Admiral William H. P. Blandy: "We hope not to be surprised in the next year. We hope the lesson of Pearl Harbor has been learned."

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

See Political Side To Lewis' Deal

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Nothing has happened in a long time that has caused so much speculation as John L. Lewis's deal with the big coal operators. As a piece of strategy, it shows Lewis once again in the role of all-powerful manipulator, engineering a bargain affecting the lives of millions of Americans.

The United Mine Workers office solemnly announces that the 200-man policy committee of the union voted unanimously in favor of the terms Lewis had negotiated. From long experience, the boys know what happens to dissidents and they vote as faithfully as in any organization run by a czar at the top.

There was, of course, no reason why any union man in his right mind would have voted against the contract. Lewis had negotiated. While his benefits have been exaggerated, it does give UMW members far more than they had even under government operation.

Political Overtones

Perhaps because this is a political town, inevitably speculation turns on the politics behind the Lewis deal. There are those who believe it has important political overtones for 1948 and after.

They link it to a report that is more and more taken to be reliable. That is that Lewis and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York have come to an understanding. Which means that Lewis will do everything he can, privately and publicly, to help bring about Dewey's nomination and election next year. Certain AFL officials are convinced that is true, and they are somewhat nervous at the thought that Lewis means to attach the federation to the Dewey comet in '48.

This can be laughed off, of course, as merely a political flying saucer—an emanation of Washington's heat. But when you examine the political consequences of the deal that Lewis engineered with Benjamin F. Fairless of the United States Steel Corp., it does not sound quite so laughable.

Lewis Leader

No. 1. Lewis becomes the outstanding chief of organized labor. He got more for his men, both in pay and in benefits, than any other leader—and without a strike. That will add immeasurably to the political weight he can pull next year.

No. 2. By circumventing the provisions of the Taft-Hartley law, Lewis has made the authors of that act look rather foolish. Those qualified to know say that under Lewis contract the penalties against wildcat strikes cannot be enforced against the mine work.

THE FAMILY TREE

Some people are very much interested in their family tree. They hunt up all of their ancestors and relatives. They arrange them in the right families. Pretty soon they have the family tree all fixed up. It is a pretty good idea to study the family tree to find out what diseases are most prevalent in the family.

Diabetes is a disease which seems to occur in some families more than others.

If there is a case of diabetes in a family all of the others should be on the look out for it. Those who are over weight should be especially watched.

A middle aged woman who suddenly begins to lose weight and has excessive thirst, hunger and fatigue should have a medical examination.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

"FRESHLY SCRUBBED" LOOK HARD TO ATTAIN

Not so many ears, necks and hands of children six to twelve are scrubbed by mothers during the summer as during the school months. But beginning next September many mothers will start in again as scrubwomen—not necessarily of floors. Even necks of children in their early teens will be scrubbed by mothers on school mornings. Sometimes there will be vocal objections—which won't render the ordeal more gentle. Often there's a lot of anger in the scrubber's hand and jaw and the well-cleaned youngster leaves the scene without a tender smile or word of endearment. Next school morning the same thing. And the next.

When one asks the mother why she does not let the boy or girl scrub his own dirty neck there is a patent answer: "He won't do it well and I can't afford to let him go to school dirty."

Inspect the Youngster

Often I have advised this mother merely to inspect the youngster and make sure he did not leave the house for school until he was clean. Those who will follow this advice literally should get desired results by and by. The training period could be rendered relatively short if the mother stuck to a reasonable standard of inspection and reported her findings in as objective and unemotional a manner as if she were a nurse or doctor dealing with a patient—merely announcing the facts without any anger whatsoever.

Once having set a clear but reasonable standard, she should not let the child pass on any lower achievement, no matter how many times he has to go back to the wash bowl.

Improve His Skill

She might help him improve his skill at washing by showing him just how it can be done best, provided she can do so without raising her voice and without feeling any stirrings in her insides.

But the usual way for her, if she makes him do the washing himself, is to stand near him using her tongue or just watching while a volcano is stirring inside her, even erupting. And as she does get mad she only delays the immediate procedure and renders future self-washing repellant to the child.

When you wish to guide your child in brushing his teeth, combing his hair or washing himself be so calm as to feel no anger at all. If you offer any suggestions give them with as much natural ease as if you were looking at the seaside. Apply this same principle in connection with having your child hang up his clothes, tidy up his room or improve his table manners. Such achievements won't be easy but they can carry dividends of endless value. Try it and write me of your experience and I might pass along your contribution.

In ancient Greece it is said that by giving them a piece of sponge soaked in honey.

I've got a labor leader in the balcony, doctor

Or he says "I feel terrible today. I don't want to go to work." His wife says "not according to the early morning news." John Lewis said you were able and willing."

The World and the Mud Puddles

YES—COMMUNISTS IN HIGH PLACES

When Actor Robert Taylor told a Congressional investigating committee at Los Angeles that he had been practically forced to play in a film which he disapproved as Soviet propaganda there was a loud howl from Moscow and a wave of ridicule from Red sympathizers in this country. Although Mr. Taylor demonstrated his patriotic loyalty by withdrawing his name from the picture, a more practical person in the movies than Robert Taylor, however, adds his testimony about the plot of the New Deal government to glorify Russian Communism. Jack Warner, a very business-like producer of Warner Brothers, in a recent testimony, it is reported from usually reliable sources, Mr. Warner confesses that he was practically forced by the Roosevelt administration to produce "Mission to Moscow," a Communist glorification picture based on the book of the Red sympathizer, former ambassador to Russia Joseph E. Davies. His Soviet propaganda, during the war, easily could have led to reprisals from several agencies of the government and the branding of Mr. Warner as a "fascist" or an "isolationist."

Enough already has been developed of official investigation to show that the Roosevelt administration was honeycombed with Reds. If the whole story can be told it will shock the country more deeply than anything since Teapot Dome.

From Me To You

By MESEKALL

The Saucer stories are running low . . . so we turn our thoughts to a bit of prose.

Not what we have, but what we use
Not what we see, but what we choose
These are the things that mar or bless
The sum of human happiness.

The things near by, not things afar,
Not what we seem, but what we are
These are the things that make or break
That give the heart its joy or ache.

Not what seems fair, but what is true
Not what we dream, but what we do,
These are the things that shine like gems,
Like stars of Fortune's diadems.

Not what we take, but what we give,
Not as we pray, but as we live
These are the things that make for peace
Both now and after: time shall cease.

And we quote from Beecher . . . who evidently knew what he was talking about.

"It is one of the severest tests of friendship to tell your friend of his faults. If you are angry with a man, or hate him, it is not hard to go to him and stab him with words; but so to love a man that you cannot bear to see the stain of sin upon him and to speak painful truth through loving words—that is friendship. But few have such friends. Our enemies usually teach us what we are, at the point of the sword."

Hints On Etiquette

Housewife shoppers, laden with bundles, are not popular passengers on street cars and buses during rush hours when workers are on their way home. If you are a housewife and can possibly limit your shopping to mid-morning and mid-afternoon hours, be sure to do so, and relieve congestion and avoid irritation.

Looking At Life

By Erich Brandeis

Did a dream ever give you indignation?
I certainly have quite a severe case of it today, and all from a dream.

I had been listening to my radio pretty nearly all evening, for want of anything better to do; and then I went to bed.

As usual, I started to sleep immediately, and I started to dream.

First I dreamed that I was on Dr. Y.U.'s famous quiz program.

"What is it that has one tall, two eyes, is spelled in three letters, the first one being K, and has four legs?"

Promptly I spelled it out—K-A-T.

"Korrek!" yelled Dr. Y.U. "Give this gentleman $1000 in silver and a year's supply of STICKERS." STICKERS, the only label that contains banana oil instead of gum and has that delicious garlic flavor."

I took my thousand dollars in silver and my year's supply of STICKERS (I had brought a bag with me, and proceeded to the next program).

It was Phil Butcher's famous "Like It Or Lump It" show, sponsored by the people who make that great combination razor and fountain pen. (You get into the bathtub, submerge and shave with one end while with the other you write a letter to that best friend who won't tell you.)

The giant jackpot question (with $4994.66 in the pot) was "What was President Lincoln's first name?"

Without a moment's hesitation I called out "Franklin D."

"Correct," shouted Mr. Butcher, and I received my money, all in silver, which I also put in the bag, at the same time pocketing my combination razor-pen, the price of which had just been reduced from $499.98 to 98 cents.

The bag was heavy, of course. (Did you ever carry a $4954.66, all in silver, and a year's supply of STICKERS in a bag?)

But I managed to get it up on the train and put my bag on the baggage rack over my seat.

The train started up and as it rounded a corner somewhere between Greenwich and Stamford, the bag fell off and right on top the fellow in front of me.

This fellow was going to a swanky affair in Westport and wore a high hat. As the bag fell on his head, it naturally crushed his hat and put a big bump on his head.

He yelled like mad and told me I had spoiled a very important affair where he was going to meet some people on a $30,000 deal. "I'm going to sue you for a half million dollars," he threatened.

What could I do? I offered him the entire $4954.66 but begged him to let me have my STICKERS.

Magnanimously he agreed.

When I arrived home I told my wife all about it, with tears in my eyes.

"Never mind, darling," she said, "haven't we our STICKERS left?"

So we sat all evening, licking the banana oil off the STICKERS.

Do you wonder I have indignation? (Copyright, 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CLOTHES FOR BOAT TRIP

"I am going to take a 10-day inland boat trip. Give me, please, clothes suggestions."

Answer: Two suitcases of clothes should be sufficient, in addition, possibly, to a dressing case of cosmetics, etc.

A great number of sachets will prove a handicap. Under ordinary conditions, a small wardrobe trunk would be ideal for you to take along, but transportation has not yet sufficiently eased for its delivery to be entirely certain.

The following clothes will suit all occasions and all kinds of weather, for on such a trip one never knows how the elements will act:

Sports dresses and flat-heeled shoes. These should include cool clothes for tennis and for walking about deck on warm days, about two dark dresses of thin material, a woolen dress or two or suits for cool days and a tweed, covert or camel's hair coat.

On shipboard, passengers usually remain in sports clothes until dinner time, when they change into "dressier" attire—dinner clothes or street-length, depending upon the trip and the amusement provided after dinner. Therefore, you had better take along about two dinner dresses and accessories for evening wear.

If you play tennis, be sure to provide yourself with a tennis dress or shorts and tennis shoes. And if you like to swim, don't forget your bathing suit for use in the pool.

Words Of Wisdom

Nothing is more disgraceful than for a man who is nothing, to hold himself honored on account of his forefathers, and yet hereditary honors are a noble and splendid treasure to descendants.—Plato.

Those Farley "Memoirs"

(By Holmes Alexander)

WASHINGTON, July 10.—I sure am sorry for James Aloysius Farley, the old Democratic boss, whose ghost-written memoirs in Collier's Magazine reveal the torments of a man plagued by the two thorniest of all human ambitions—the itch for high society and high political office.

The thwarting of either desire is enough to blight any man's life, but poor Jim let himself in for double trouble. It's plainly written between the lines that Jim's ineptitude to handle a tea cup on the Roosevelt level cut deeper than not getting the Roosevelt go-ahead signal to run for the Presidency.

This self-revelation on Farley's part is both pitiable and disillusioning. For years Big Jim stood before the country in the enviable role of a man who'd reached the pinnacle of success in his chosen field. Wasn't he a president-maker? Haven't he risen from a small town politician to national bossdom? Wasn't he rated as one of the rarest birds ever to roost in legislative rafters—an "honest" politician?

Yes, but Jim's own confessions have rent this charitable disguise which concealed his inner yearnings. He now lays bare a dissatisfied and jealous heart—a wishful yen to be something he wasn't. Jim's continuous reference to real and imagined snubs by the Lord and Lady of Hyde Park do more harm to the Farley legend than to the Roosevelt legend which Jim has under attack. "Never was I invited to spend the night in the historic (Executive) mansion." He and his wife weren't included when the Roosevelts gave a picnic for the King and Queen of England. And he quotes Mrs. Roosevelt's remark about FDR's inability to relax "with people who aren't his social equals."

Jim's self-pity on the high society score is only a little more pathetic than his political delusions. He tells us that no other Democrat had a better chance of succeeding Roosevelt in 1940, and he naively compares himself with Al Smith—never realizing that the real comparison was not between two Catholics but between a great governor and a great boss.

But Jim's memoirs are a human document and therefore valuable—particularly in view of the scramble for Presidential nominations for 1948. You can't read this autobiography without being reminded that political history is often written—and should be studied—more in terms of personalities than of issues. My guess is that a well-placed picnic invitation would have done a lot toward soothing Farley's moral qualms about FDR's third-term ambitions.

Farley's recital of his political disappointments ought to make parallel reading with the present-day reports about the launching of a third party. The history of third parties shows that they are most often the vehicles of persons who have slept at the White House and never thereafter slept happily anywhere else. Martin Van Buren and Millard Fillmore, both one-term Presidents, were subsequently third-ticket candidates for a return trip. So was Roosevelt I. Henry Wallace was never an ex-president, but for four years only the aging FDR stood between him and that glittering prize. It's no wonder that Henry is coyly bidding for leadership of the Old Deal faction, and that when he looks around for supporters he finds LaGuardia, an unemployed mayor, Pepper, a slavish flatterer of FDR, not to mention Jimmy, Elliott, Franklin, Jr., Anna and Eleanor Roosevelt—all of whom naturally enough miss those White House picnics.

As for Jim Farley, I don't see why he has to give up so easily. He too slept in the White House—if only imaginatively. He too spent some of his best years in the belief that he could be FDR's successor. Well, as they say at the race track the judges never set a rider down for trying, and Jim has as much right as Henry to start a third party. Jim may not know much about teacups but he's been a Coca Cola executive for years, and meanwhile Mrs. Roosevelt has been dropped from the Social Register. But what I'm hoping is that Jim has outlived those little vanities of his middle years, and that these confessions have purged him of their poison. He writes: "I have only one regret about my public service and that is that I was not permitted to participate in the war effort." But patriotism has its peace-time uses, and there is still room in American politics for a man with Jim Farley's essential honesty and common sense.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Oestreicher, INS Foreign Director

The suave, cultured voice of Anthony Eden was added today to the swelling chorus of warning that Great Britain again may be forced to ask for American financial aid before the year is out.

He told the House of Commons that Britain's economic position "clearly is serious." And the former foreign secretary went on to say that the retrenchment program framed by Laborite Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton is far from adequate.

With characteristic aversion to Britain becoming a "permanent pensioner of the United States," Eden strongly recommended some "self-help" plan among components of the commonwealth—a clear bid to Canada, South Africa and Australia to do more than they are doing for preservation of the motherland.

The granting of independence to India may alleviate Britain's home situation somewhat, for it will free large numbers of troops for needed labor in the British Isles.

But by the same token it will increase the population of the home islands, where food already is desperately scarce and luxuries virtually unknown.

Many observers wonder why there is not far greater emigration from the United Kingdom, officially sponsored by the government. It would achieve two purposes: (1) thin out the population at home and (2) facilitate in exploiting unplumbed resources in the colonies and dominions.

The present comparative reluctance of Britons to leave their homeland unless called out by war sometimes is difficult indeed to understand.

Britain was at its greatest in the period of expansionism, and wherever Englishmen put their feet the grass grew richer beneath.

Australia, New Zealand, Canada and the maritime provinces are classic examples of Britain's ability to create vast new civilizations out of a wilderness and not even the little part played by the English in these United States of America.

"Blights" More Important

But with the passing of the years, the Englishman's "blighty" seems to have become of ever-increasing importance to him. He has put up with war and post-war shortages, overcrowding, diminution of natural resources and antiquated living and working conditions for the slight solace of knowing that on the islands his home is his "castle."

There have been occasional spurts of "colonization fever" but not nearly enough to breed about any noticeable change in the conditions at home that are so hard to bear, but at the same time so cheerfully borne.

Patriotism and aversion to change probably are jointly responsible. If England actually is foundering, that is an enormous factor as well. An English jack-of-all doesn't quit a sinking ship until every last hope is gone.

Duff Against Many Measures

Temporarily Vetoes Bill Replacing Borough Councilmen Improperly Elected

HARRISBURG, July 10.—(INS)—Legislation providing for the replacement of borough councilmen elected improperly carried the veto Wednesday of Gov. James H. Duff. The measure would have provided for the election of successors during the next municipal polling, but would have extended the terms of councilmen serving legally for two years to run out even with the four-year terms of replacements.

Duff objected to the term extension provisions, not involved in election disputes, as containing a "serious constitutional question."

The state constitution, he said, "provides that no law shall extend the term of any public officer after his election or appointment."

Duff added that had the measure contained merit, it should have been included in the borough code, revising laws pertaining to Pennsylvania's 937 boroughs.

The vetoed bill was co-sponsored by Republican Reps. John N. Hoffman and John A. Jones, both of Northampton.

Other Rejections

Duff also rejected a measure that would have required prothonotaries to render accounts of fees received as well as state taxes on complaints by which court action is initiated.

The measure would have designated the department of revenue rather than the auditor general's department as the filing agent and possibly create confusion concerning presentation of reports, Duff pointed out.

Another measure rejected by the governor proposed a $1,000,000 appropriation to the welfare department for reimbursing state-aided hospitals for student nurse training costs up to $50 a year for each trainee.

Duff said no allowance had been made in his budget for the program and that state-aided hospitals already had been granted a 40 percent increase in subsidies for general purposes.

Furthermore, he said, "this bill would provide additional aid to those hospitals which have training schools for nurses and would not provide additional aid to all of the state-aided hospitals."

He turned down also a bill to permit the Public Service Institute board in the department of public assistance to offer in-service training of officers and employees of public, semi-public, private institutions and courts.

A companion bill to establish the training program failed to receive legislative endorsement and funds for financing the plan were not available, Duff said.

Seeks Damages For Injuries In Merchant Marine

PITTSBURGH, July 10.—(INS)—A $50,000 suit seeking damages from the government for injuries suffered while working as a merchant seaman during the war today was on file in federal court in Pittsburgh. Court attaches said they believed it to be the first suit of its kind ever filed against the United States.

The plaintiff, Hugh H. Sutton, 51, of Manor, Pa., said he suffered impairment of vision and hearing and back injuries while his ship, the Cuba Victory, was lying off Guadalcanal in 1945. He said concussion from the explosion of an ammunition dump on the island, caused when a practice shell from a nearby naval vessel struck it, threw him to the deck.

He added he did not receive adequate medical attention until the ship reached the United States, and he charged "reckless and negligent conduct" on the part of the navy.

ers. This certainly does not enhance the prestige of Sen. Robert A. Taft, who is Dewey's rival for the Republican presidential nomination.

Considered against the background of recent history, the deal seems even more extraordinary. At the time of the UMW coal strike last winter, the operators were indignantly demanding that the government stop meddling. This was a frequent line of attack directed against Secretary of the Interior Julius A. Krug, administrator of the mines under government operation, even after Krug went into federal court to enjoin the strike.

Agree To Welfare Fund
Only a few days before the government gave up the mines on June 30, the operators were insisting that they would never approve in a union contract, the kind of health and welfare fund that Krug had okayed. Yet, in the agreement just signed, the operators agree to double the welfare fund.

When the government surrendered the mines, there was $22,000,000 in the fund. Under the new contract, an estimated $60,000,000 a year will be provided to cover health and welfare provisions.

By the terms of the Taft-Hartley law, this fund will be administered by a board to be made up of one union representative, one management representative, and a neutral person to be agreed upon by the other two. The strong likelihood, given Lewis' skill and ruthlessness as an operator, is that he will have a lot to say about the use of that fund. And, as the saying goes, $60,000,000 a year ain't hay.

One of the ironies is what happened to the southern operators. Southern congressmen went along with the backers of the Taft-Hartley bill, but when Lewis got ready to deal, he kept the southerners waiting outside his door until he had the terms he wanted from the big boys in the north. The law, as some one once observed, can't make over human behavior in a day.

Memorial Highway Across Nation Now Being Proposed

HARRISBURG, July 10.—(INS)—Plans for development of a cross-nation Blue Star Memorial highway in honor of servicemen and women of World War II gained momentum in Pennsylvania today.

The Pennsylvania Roadside Council, sponsoring agency in the state, received pledges of support from representatives of each county and state government agencies, at a meeting at the state capitol yesterday.

Earlier, the campaign was given the support of the general assembly in officially designating Route 22 from Easton to Harrisburg and the Pennsylvania Turnpike from Harrisburg to Pittsburgh as the state's link in the nationwide program.

Sponsors of the campaign included: Mrs. Cyril G. Fox, of Media, chairman; Mrs. James H. Duff, honorary chairman; Mrs. D. Ray Murdoch, Greensburg, Western Division chairman; Mrs. Helen Loewen, Harrisburg, Central Division; and Mrs. William H. Blester, Jr., Philadelphia, Eastern Division.

RAISE TUITION FEES
PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—(INS)—Tuition fees at the University of Pennsylvania in almost all departments will be raised gradually during the next year.

President George W. McClelland announced the boosts will help defray an increase of more than $2 million in operating costs.

The increase, raising tuition from $250 to $300 per semester, will become effective for full-time students in undergraduate schools in February, 1948.

Trade Training
Enrolls 88,500

Many Students In Full Or Part Time Vocational Program In Public Schools

HARRISBURG, July 10.—More than 88,500 students are taking the full or part time course vocational training provided by the public school system of Pennsylvania, Dr. Francis B. Haas, superintendent of public instruction, said today.

Dr. Haas said that of the total, more than 57,500 are taking full-time vocational training.

"These enrollment figures are very important to those engaged in vocational teaching," Dr. Haas said, "because there definitely exists in Pennsylvania today an acute labor shortage of highly skilled crafts. During the four years of the war, in order to accomplish the ultimate victory, the production machinery was geared to the use of semi-skilled labor in which the training requirements were limited so that the total labor pool could be tapped without delay."

War Program

"This condition was of necessity a fundamental for our all-out total war program."

"But now competitive industry is reconverting to peacetime conditions and standards and the demand is for skilled and technical experts. This presents a clear challenge to vocational teachers and administrators. Vocational training, like virtually every other vocational activity, was set back four years by the war and a four-year shortage of the finished product—the skilled worker—exists."

Four Categories

"The enrollment of vocational students in our public school system largely falls into four major categories. In the trade and industrial group, we have 21,000 full time students and 20,000 part time students. In addition there are 8,000 veterans enrolled in full time courses in special veterans' programs in the districts. Vocational agriculture training has 12,000 full time students and 3,500 part time students. Home economics has 15,500 enrolled in vocational courses on a full time basis and 7,600 on a part time basis. Distributive education accounts for 1,100."

Moderate Drinker
Definition Given

Medical Consultants Give Status
In Issue Of Medical Journal

CHICAGO, July 10.—(INS)—A "moderate drinker" was defined today in the current issue of the journal of the American Medical Association.

A query from a California physician as to a definition for "alcohol taken in moderation," was referred to two unidentified medical consultants.

The first said that two cocktails or highballs a day would be considered "moderate drinking" by "most informed people."

He said, however, that this applied to the average, healthy adult, on a good diet.

He said further that the yardstick did not apply if the two cocktails or highballs were taken "on an empty stomach before the morning breakfast" or "shortly before, during or shortly after the evening meal."

He also touched on the ratio between two cocktails and the poundage of the consumer, stating:

"Taken under identical conditions and ate, this quantity of alcohol would produce much higher blood alcohol in a person weighing 160 pounds than in a person weighing 200 pounds."

He said that moderate drinkers live as long as total abstainers, and regarding "the immediate and temporary action" of alcohol, said that "there are considerable individual variations in tolerance."

The second consultant cited a survey made by life insurance companies in which the term "moderate drinker" was applied to persons who imbibe two glasses of beer or one glass of whisky, or the equivalent, daily.

Another Disc
Contraction Is Found In West

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 10.—(INS)—The FBI and army intelligence today examined a contraction that might prove to be a "flying disc."

Authorities however, were frankly skeptical it was really one of the mysterious "saucers" that have been reported soaring over most of the nation.

The aluminum object, 30 inches in diameter and four inches thick, landed late last night in the yard of Russell Long, a mechanical engineer.

Long told the fire department and other investigators the "disc" struck with a bright flash and made a popping noise that could be heard throughout the neighborhood.

Long related:

"It apparently is jet propelled. It had a radio tube in the center and two small exhaust pipes. It was burning brightly when I ran out. I didn't know what it was, so I put it out with a garden hose."

Long said the radio tube glowed brightly for about three minutes and that the two exhausts belched a "heavy yellowish smoke."

Authorities said if the "disc" was the work of a prankster, a "lot of work and time was spent in making it."

LEARNS TO FLY AT 70

WAYNESBURG, July 10.—(INS)—Life, to William Dunn, is flying high, literally, now that he has reached the Biblical allotment of three score years and ten.

The 70-year-old retired hardware merchant of Zollarsville, Pa., has just completed a course in flying. He is believed to be the oldest "pupil" ever to sprout wings at a Pennsylvania flying school.

After his first solo flight recently, Dunn said:

"Just about the happiest day I've had in a long, long time."

Avid Anglers View
Catches In Advance

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(INS)—The state conservation commission has obliged anglers with a preview of the fish they can hook when the season opens.

Seven mobile "aquariums" have been placed in operation to transport live bass and trout from hatchery to mountain stream.

Invented By Hatchery Man

The invention of B. D. Willis, hatchery official, each of the traveling tanks is equipped with port-holes of Tuf-flex glass, developed by the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company to withstand the combined pressure of the water, the thrashing of fish, and the pushing of crowds.

The first such units to be adopted by a state conservation commission, the aquariums hold from 1,500 to 2,000 fish, Willis said. Daily trips, prior to the opening of the season, cover fishing haunts 50 to 60 miles from the hatcheries with a mortality rate of less than one-tenth of one per cent of the fish, he declared.

Make Frequent Halts

Making frequent halts en route to the streams, the truckloads of fish are viewed by thousands of local Izaak Walton, he said, all of whom are eager to glimpse the big ones "before they get away."

bristled up, are a disagreeable mouthful for snakes, their most formidable foes. They will fight, however, and even kill a snake small enough to be an even match.

Petitions Circulating To Ask For Vote On Issue In Wampum This Fall

OTHER NEWS OF COURT HOUSE

One more special election is in sight for the primary election on September 9. Petitions are being circulated in Wampum asking for a referendum upon Sunday motion pictures.

The referendum probably explains the sudden rush of registrations in the borough. A special registration day was held earlier in the week and the number of registrations seemed out of proportion in an election where there was no issue to be decided. The Sunday motion picture issue seems to be the answer.

British Public Appears Pleased

Formal Announcement Of Betrothal Of Princess Is Well Received

LONDON, July 10.—(INS)—The British public rejoiced today over formal announcement of the long-expected engagement of Princess Elizabeth, heiress-apparent to the throne, and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, the former Prince Philip of Greece.

Congratulatory messages streamed in upon the couple from all parts of the British commonwealth.

Princess Elizabeth will make her first public appearance since the engagement announcement by her father, King George VI, when she accompanies him and Queen Elizabeth today to an unveiling dedication commemorating the battle of Britain in the last war.

The highlight of her day is expected to come when the princess appears with Lieut. Mountbatten at a garden party at Buckingham Palace which will be attended by 10,000 persons during the afternoon.

To Appear at Palace

The couple is expected to appear on the balcony of the palace in the evening to receive open congratulations of the people of London.

Public reaction generally was that the engagement formalized a true love match between the princess and the Royal Navy lieutenant.

Typical of the reaction was an editorial in the Times of London which said:

"The pleasure of the people will be greater because it is apparent there can have been no motive but the impulse of their own hearts."

"By a happy accident the princess has bestowed her hand in such a way that two apparently divergent opinions about the qualifications of her consort are simultaneously satisfied—the opinions of those on the one hand who would wish him to be a British subject and those on the other who consider royal blood essential."

New Castle Truck Crashes In Valley

BEAVER FALLS, July 10.—A truck owned by the Valley Motor Freight company and operated by Louis R. Hoover, 347 North street, New Castle, skidded on a rain-drenched Beaver Falls street Wednesday, damaging the vehicle.

The accident occurred when Hoover, driving north, applied his brakes to stop for a traffic light and the vehicle skidded on the blacktop surface. The driver of the truck was unhurt.

FLYING SAUCER SCARE

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—(INS)—Flying saucer scares plagued a Philadelphia neighborhood today.

Two explosions followed by spectacular light effects frightened residents into believing that flying saucers had finally "landed."

Police investigation determined, however, that the blasts were from aerial bombs of the type used in fireworks displays.

JERUSALEM, July 10.—(INS)—

The British army radio in Palestine broadcast an alarm for two soldiers and two constables who are "missing from their units."

Salvation Army Group At Camp

Leave New Castle Wednesday For Camp Allegheny, Near Ell-
wood City

The Guard and Sunbeam group of the Salvation Army left for Camp Allegheny, near Ellwood City, on Wednesday. At 11 o'clock they were supposed to start, but 9 o'clock found some eager youngsters with piles of baggage ringing the bell at Salvation Army headquarters on North Jefferson street.

"Is it time to go yet?" they kept insisting.

Adjutant Thelma Dundon took the youngsters to camp in a station wagon, but the youngsters just couldn't cram themselves and all their baggage in, so it was necessary to make two trips.

170 At Camp

There are 170 children at Camp Allegheny, with a staff of 30 counselors. Twelve children live in each cabin. The cabins have recently been painted a cheery red and white.

Superintendents of the camp are

Major and Mrs. John Fay and overseeing the cabins are Major and Mrs. Walter Porter. Capt. Dora Berti, Pittsburgh, has planned the camp program.

The swimming pool is a natural one; a section of the Slippery Rock creek that has been dammed off. Two competent life guards supervise swimming activities, and the buddy system is used. Swimming classes are held in the morning, and there is free swimming every afternoon. Water races and meets are also included in the list of activities.

Second U. P. Church Has Annual Outing

Early afternoon rains failed to dampen the spirits of the members of the Second U. P. Sunday school and church during their annual picnic held Wednesday at the Community Park in New Wilmington.

The happy group of picnickers left the church by bus and auto at 3:30 p. m. and upon arriving at the park engaged in a period of sports, games and swimming. At 6:30 p. m. the tired but hungry group enjoyed a basket lunch.

Committee that assisted in making the event such a success were: Mrs. Oscar Alexander, Mrs. Harold Davis, Mrs. A. W. Hanna; Shirley Belknap, coffee; Doris Curry, lemonade, and the M. M. M. class serving.

Movies of the outing were taken by Rev. J. Calvin Rose. In charge of the adult sports was Mrs. Howard Warnock; children, Mrs. Elder Bryan and Mrs. J. Calvin Rose.

Harvard Astronomer Says Enigma Of "Flying Discs" Psychiatrists' Problem

By GENE LORICK
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 10.—Dr. Harlow Shapley declared today that the enigma of the "flying saucers" is "not a problem for meteorologists or astronomers, but one for psychiatrists."

The world-famous director of Harvard college observatory in an exclusive interview with International News Service prescribed two methods by which any one could see the "discs." They are:

1—Rub your eyeballs.
2—In your cups.

Dr. Shapley, holder of Ph. D., LL. D., and honorary SD., Litt., DD., SC., and Dr. honorary degrees puffed on a brand new corn-cob pipe as he solemnly commented that the "flying saucers" seen in every section of the United States, have come this year a month ahead of the Lochness "sea monster time."

Summer Heat

He said: "That period of the year usually starts about the first of August. Perhaps you can blame it on the summer heat."

Dr. Shapley observed that science cannot without reliable evidence, can not and should not be expected to explain the source of the "saucers" or "discs." He added:

"We'll have to leave that to the imaginative public, the journalists or the romantics."

Harvard is the clearing house for all astronomical observations by scientists throughout the world. And all this information passes through the hands of Dr. Shapley and his staff, housed in a beautiful wooded and shaded area just five minutes walk from the heart of Cambridge.

He said he could not explain from a trained scientist's point of view what caused various people to "see the discs," but continued:

"Nine out of ten who report these objects are hoaxes, or unreliable witnesses who don't mind publicity."

Two Ways To See Them

"There are really two ways to see the discs, or saucers, or spots before your eyes.

"In the first way, you shut one eye. Then squeeze the eyeball with the hand. Then you close the other eye, open the rubbed one, and you'll see flying saucers."

"They come in all shapes, sizes, heights and at unbelievable speeds."

"The second, and best way to see them, through is in your cups."

"But in these trying times, it is good entertainment."

"As an observation, I would suggest that perhaps if this speculation about flying saucers continues throughout the summer, we will have a new synonym for daffiness, or mania, or feckless nuttery. It is a form of auto suggestion—democracy in emotion."

(Webster's dictionary defines feckless as "weak, worthless, spiritless.")

ELECT TEACHERS AT GROVE CITY

GROVE CITY, July 10.—The resignations of four teachers were presented to the board of education at their meeting on Tuesday night. Three of these vacancies were filled and the board additionally elected Miss Jean Geiger of Kittanning to the new position of dental hygienist.

Sarah M. Albin, Grove City, was elected Latin teacher to succeed Miss Thelma Smith, who resigned. Virginia Lou Maxwell, also of Grove City, will succeed Mrs. Janice Crawford Jameson as teacher of English. Mrs. Charlotte Cox was named to the seventh grade vacancy, Central school, created by the resignation of Sarah H. Hetrick.

The vacancy left by the resignation of Ruth M. Ford, grade school librarian, was not filled.

More Witnesses Being Called In Yacht Murder Case

SANTA ANA, Calif., July 10.—(INS)—More witnesses were scheduled to take the witness stand in the Overell murder case today to add to circumstantial evidence the state hopes will convict Beulah Louise Overell, 18, and her sweetheart, George (Bud) Gollum, 21, of the murder of her parents.

The prosecution put R. C. Lemon, executor of the Walter E. Overell estate, on the stand to identify keys to the Overells' Plimridge home and a box in the financier's office which were introduced as evidence.

The state indicated that it will prove that the keys were taken from either Gollum or Miss Overell.

Gollum and Miss Overell are charged with beating her wealthy parents to death and then dynamiting them with their yacht in Newport harbor last March 15.

The defense issued a statement yesterday that its witnesses will refute all the medical testimony produced by the prosecution that the Overells died of bludgeoning.

Dr. G. S. Bennett Looks Forward To World Convention

Pastor Of First Christian Church Will Be Signally Honored At Buffalo Church Meet

Dr. G. S. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian church on the Public Square will be one of the 8,000 ministers of the Disciples of Christ denomination who will gather in Buffalo, N. Y. from July 29 to August 10 to be in attendance at the national and international convention of the church in that city.

The national convention of the Disciples will open on July 29 and will continue until August 3 when the international meeting will open and run until August 10. The two conventions will be tied together by a gigantic communion service on the afternoon of Sunday August 3 when at least 10,000 including pastors, lay delegates and young people will partake of the sacred emblems together.

Invitations have been extended to a select number of ministers of the church to fill pulpits in the Buffalo city on Sunday, August 3. Dr. Bennett has received one of these few invitations and has accepted. He plans to be in attendance at both conventions.

Among the prominent laymen who will be heard during the giant convention, will be Charles P. Taft, president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America and William H. McKinney, new executive secretary of the National Laymen's League.

A gigantic pageant entitled "The Salt of the Earth" will tell the story of the Disciples of Christ, in one of the convention sessions. Danis Savage and Dr. Fred Eastman of the University of Chicago, will direct the pageant.

Madonna Sodality Has Annual Outing

Madonna Sodality observed "Sodality Day" last Sunday and the group started the day by receiving Holy Communion in a body at Madonna church. A business meeting followed.

At 2 p. m. the girls gathered at Cascade park where a tureen dinner was enjoyed, followed by a sports program including badminton, mushball, swimming and boating.

Two Slightly Hurt As Auto Hits Pole

Frank Demarco, of 312 Montgomery avenue, and Rose Cariammini, of 413 Shady Side, were treated at the New Castle hospital at 9:35 p.

m. Wednesday for injuries received when Demarco's car struck a pole at the intersection of Taylor and South Mill streets. They were able to leave after treatment. Officers Tewell, Davis, and Bartoshek investigated the circumstances surrounding the crash, which was reported to them by Dominick Ip-polito of 302 East Lutton, who was passing the scene when the accident occurred.

Demarco suffered a laceration of the thumb and contusions of the forehead, and Miss Cariammini had lacerations of the forehead, right cheek and bruises of the right cheek and chest.

Man was the one who formerly worried about his headress, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica. Men did not wear their hair short until the fifth century. Before that time men's hair hung in loose ringlets or was braided in two plaits wound around the head.

Naval Chaplain Speaks To Kiwanis

Former Junior Kiwanian Who Became Lieutenant Commander In Navy Heard Wednesday

WAS YOUNGEST NAVY CHAPLAIN

Lawrence Bennett, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Bennett of East Moody avenue, who returned home just a week ago, after five years of service as a chaplain in the U. S. Navy during which time he rose to the rank of lieutenant commander, spoke interestingly of his experiences in the Pacific theater, where he served during the late war.

Twelve years ago, Mr. Bennett was a Junior Kiwanian of the local club, he recalled, little dreaming then that he would return later to speak to them as a Navy veteran.

When he joined the U. S. Navy in 1942, after graduating from the seminary, he was the youngest chaplain ever to serve in the Navy. Prior to the war, a chaplain to be accepted by the Navy must have had three years preaching experience, but he, along with a number of other young men, was called into service direct from the seminary.

At the time of entry, the young recruits were impressed with the fact that the casualty rate then was the highest in any branch of Navy service, one in every eight having been a casualty.

After his indoctrination period, he was sent to New Caledonia, and assigned to the Marine Corps. His next stop was Australia, where he spent a delightful time visiting relatives, before sailing for New Guinea, which they reached at the height of the rainy season, New Guinea having the second highest precipitation rate of any place in the world. From there he went on to Cape Gloucester and then to New Britain, finishing up in the Russell Islands, after which he was returned to Pearl Harbor and thence to the United States, where he served at Camp LeJeune.

Lt. Commander Bennett recalled many humorous incidents during his career in the Navy, and his account of his service was more on the lighter side.

CITRUS COATINGS
NEW YORK—(INS)—New coatings for sausage and other meat products are being made from citrus peel and other fruit and vegetable wastes. This thin protective film of good strength is so tender it dissolves on food that is boiled; if fried or roasted it can be eaten right along with the food.

Accidents rank fourth as a cause of death in the United States.

PROTECT 1947 GRAIN FROM WEEVIL ATTACK

As grain bins are emptied in preparation for the new crop they should be swept out thoroughly and treated with DDT to kill any weevils present.

Done about a week before the new grain is stored, it will give excellent protection against infestation of the new grain. For this treatment, it is advisable to use 5 per cent DDT household spray at the rate of one gallon per 400 square feet of surface.

The bin floor, walls, and ceiling should be covered with the spray, also the silos leading into the granary. Mature weevils hiding in the cracks and crevices will be killed as they come in contact with the spray residue.

DDT is effective for months, and if applied a week or more before the new grain is stored will not harm the grain for food or feed.

The name Jean, Jeanne or Joanne means "grace of the Lord."

Aberdeen-Angus Field Day Planned

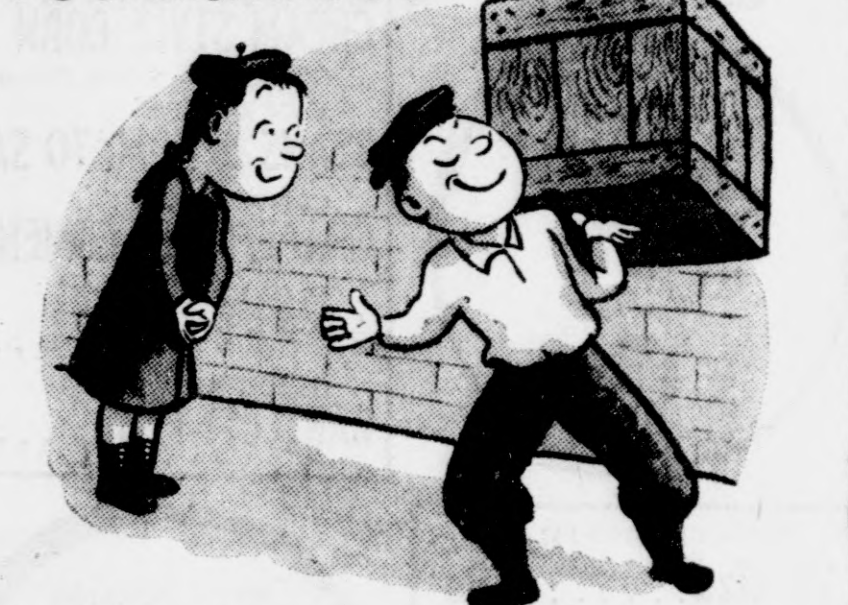

Breeders From Western Pennsylvania Will Gather In Butler Saturday For Field Day

An Aberdeen-Angus field day will take place on Saturday, July 12, at Bonniercroft Farm, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rief, of Renfrew, near Route 2, a few miles south of Butler, for all breeders of this breed of beef cattle from the district.

One of the features will be a calf scramble, which will provide profitable and lively entertainment for a group of youths. Twelve boys between the ages of 16 and 20 years, will be turned loose in an enclosure with six Angus calves, and the boy successful in putting a halter on a calf and leading it across the enclosure, will be privileged to keep the animal. Several Lawrence County youths will participate.

ABOARD BATTLESHIP

God In His World
Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The creation of light.

"The earth is Jehovah's and the fullness thereof; The world, and they that dwell therein."—Psalm 24:1.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 13 is Genesis 1; Job 38:41; Matthew 6:25-30, the Memory Verse being Psalm 24:1. "The earth is Jehovah's and the fullness thereof; The world, and they that dwell therein.")

The first part of our lesson refers us to the first chapter of Genesis, in which God created the world. They are so familiar to us, that while we may be glad to read them over, our real lesson is the Lord's answer to Job and his discussion with his friends.

We are told that in the 75 years that the International Sunday school lessons have been published, this is the first time these passages from the Book of Job have been assigned.

You remember that in our last lesson Job was reviewing his life to see if he had failed in any way and so could understand that the terrible things that had happened to him were the result of his sins. He concludes his argument with: "If I have eaten the fruits thereof without money, or have caused the owners thereof to lose their life: Let thistles grow instead of wheat, and cockle instead of barley. The words of Job are ended."

"Then the Lord answered Job out of the whirlwind, and said, Who is this that darkened counsel by words without knowledge? Gird up now thy loins like a man; for I will demand of thee, and answer thou Me."

The Lord made no apology for allowing Job, the righteous man, to suffer as he had. But He reviews the wonders of Nature and asks if Job had anything to do with controlling them? He makes Job feel very humble and insignificant, as we shall see.

"Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? declare, if thou hast understanding. Who hath laid the measures thereof, if thou knowest? or who hath stretched the line upon it? Whereupon are the foundations thereof fastened? or who laid the corner stone thereof?"

When the Stars Sang Together

"When the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy?"

Question follows question, with no chance for Job to answer, even if he had the answers ready.

Who controlled the seas and said, "Hitherto shalt thou come, but no further, and here shall thy proud waves be stayed?"

"Have the gates of death been opened unto thee? or hast thou seen the doors of the shadow of death?"

"Hast thou entered into the treasure of the snow? or hast thou seen the treasures of the hail?"

"Canst thou bring forth Mazzaroth in his season? or canst thou guide Acturus with his sons?"

"Knowest thou the ordinances of heaven? Canst thou set the dominion thereof in the earth?"

"Canst thou lift up thy voice to the clouds, that abundance of waters may cover thee?"

"Canst thou send lightnings, that they may go, and say until thee, Here we are?"

How About Wild Creatures?

The Lord went on to ask how much Job knew about the wild creatures of the earth. "Wilt thou hunt the prey for the lion? or fill the appetite of the young lions, and abide in the covert to lie in wait?"

"Who provideth for the raven his food? when his young ones cry unto God, they wander for lack of meat."

Does Job know about the ways of the wild goat, or can he tame the unicorn, he is asked. The unicorn is said to be the wild ox, now extinct, but untamable when he was on earth. The wild ass, the wild ox, the ostrich, the horse, the hawk and the eagle. The description of the horse is very fine. The behemoth spoken of is thought to be the hippopotamus. The Leviathan is also thought to have referred to the crocodile, the whole back of which is covered with horny quadrangular plates or scales set so closely together that the sharpest spear can hardly find its way through them.

The Lord asked Job: "Shall he that contendeth with the Almighty instruct Him? he that reproved God, let him answer it."

"Then Job answered the Lord, and said, Behold, I am vile; what shall I answer Thee? I will lay mine hand upon my mouth. "Once have I spoken; but I will not answer; yea, twice; but I will proceed no further."

He realizes that he is indeed a very small part of the universe, and what are his sufferings compared with the wondrous workings of the Lord in the world?

GIRL IS DROWNED
PITTSBURGH, July 10.—(INS)—Tragedy today separated the five-year-old twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brandenstein of Pittsburgh.

Little Marlene tumbled into the Allegheny river near Harmarville last night and was drowned.

She had been wading along the river's edge with her sister, Marlene, shortly before the accident, but was alone when she fell into the stream. The body was recovered an hour later.

FLYING SAUCERS
PITTSBURGH, July 10.—(INS)—Hundreds of Pittsburghers saw hundreds of flying saucers, and they didn't have to stagger from a tap room to do so, either.

Some wag in an airplane scattered several hundred paper plates that fluttered over the city yesterday evening.

At least, some of these flying discs were tangible, one resident remarked, even though not very awe-some.

Do your buildings NEED PAINT?

According to investigations, many farmers are putting paint jobs on their "must" list this year. Painting is important. It protects your building investment. That's why we're making "paint loans" to help farmers make their buildings look like new again. These loans are easily arranged on a reasonable basis, and on terms suitable to each farmer's requirements. Why not talk over your paint plans with us too.

IN THE OPEN

Chicory has hung out its blue banners along the country roadsides once again. Only the early riser knows the real beauty of this second cousin to our common dandelion. By mid-afternoon these gay blossoms have a dusty, bedraggled appearance, as though worn out from the heavy traffic. Seen in the early morning sunlight, with the dew still gleaming on the foliage, this humble immigrant bows to no flower.

The fisherman, off with the dawn to his favorite bass waters, knows the chicory well. When he sees those "blue sailors" glowing with early morning color "to match the sky" he can count on a good day along the stream. The chicory is a sun worshiper, and refuses to display its blue beauty when skies are overcast. Chicory, and brown-eyed Susans, and wheat standing ripe in the fields! The countryman is suddenly aware that another growing season is rapidly nearing high noon. The holiday week-end dug up a perfect summer's day. The morning was bright and warm, but a fresh breeze toned down the temperature and kept a stately procession of thunderheads wheeling along ponderously overhead. I got away to a late start but by the noon hour I was far afield, traversing a hillside pasture on the way to a sizeable stand of heavy timber.

Fencecross Colored
Raspberries are coloring in the fencecross, and here and there the top berry in the cluster was ripe for the eager hand and the open month. Another week should see the blackcaps ready for some serious attention. I dallied along, munching a berry or two and watching a line of boulders on the far side of the valley. These boulders are supposed to house a fox den or two, but I saw nary a sign of Reynard.

Near the head of this valley I splashed across the small brook which meanders aimlessly through a swale of sedges. The American brookline has taken hold in this area, and had spread out great misty sheets of the tiny blue flowers. On the steep bank above this swale was a station of the tall pale lobelia, which bears its pale blue flowers in long spikes on a wand-like stem. The meadow pink was also in full flower, its finely cut petals worthy of close inspection with a hand lens.

The bird song chorus of the vernal months has settled down now to the steady performers. Most of these little fellows are too busy with the humdrum summer household chores to have time to fool around with music. The field sparrow sang occasionally during the afternoon, and I heard the wood pewee and the filibustering red-eyed vireo. It was a pleasure to note a lone red-headed woodpecker at home in this area. This once common bird is becoming all too rare hereabouts, the victim of trigger-happy sportsmen who can't resist his bright coloring.

Once Chestnut Country
I entered the woodland at a spot halfway up the hillside, where a line of huge boulders extends several hundred feet through the timber. This was once chestnut country, but the blight has eliminated these fellows, and the remaining stand is largely beech, and rock oak, with a tulip poplar or a sour gum here and there for variety. The beech have even thrived right on top of several of the boulders, and have sent their roots out and down the rock face to seek out the soil and the life-giving moisture beneath.

The spotted wintergreen grows in this woodland, and has set many buds ready to burst soon into the sweet-scented small white flowers. I followed a rather well defined trail clear across this timberland and came out onto an abandoned hillside which had apparently once been an orchard. The wreckage of an early log structure stood on the hilltop. I walked that way, discovering a pair of small butternut trees with their feet in what had once been the spring for that early homestead.

There were many similar trees in the field below the house, but only those with wet feet were hanging full of the fruits which are a favorite in our household. If the squirrels don't beat me to it those butternuts will repose in my cellar this winter.

There is still another log edifice in this back-country. It has also fallen in, but doubtless has quite a history, if one could turn back the calendar. Just below this cabin I came across a large station of the tall elecampane, or "horseheel". The early settlers placed great faith in the curative virtues of this plant, which they brought with them from Europe. I'll bet a hat that this station got its start in that area many years ago from roots carefully set by the pioneer housewife.

More Equitable
Tax System For State Proposed

Governor Duff Approves Recommendation Made By General Assembly

HARRISBURG, July 10.—(INS)—The general assembly's recommendation for study of a "more equitable and scientific" tax system in Pennsylvania was seconded today by Gov. James H. Duff.

The chief executive approved legislation directing the joint state government commission to conduct the survey, but halved the proposed $100,000 appropriation for expenses. The bill was co-sponsored by Sen. James A. Galtz (R) Allegheny and Senate Minority Leader John H. Dent, Westmoreland.

When the legislation was enacted, lawmakers indicated the tax study foreshadowed levy of a possible sales tax in 1949 or imposition of a possible graduated income tax after constitutional limitations were removed. The measure pointed out that "the existing tax structure of the commonwealth, has been developed on a piecemeal basis with the result that it lacks a scientific and equitable basis."

The present system, the bill stated, "unduly burdens industrial enterprises," discouraging immigration of industry into the state. A program that would "safeguard and enhance" the commonwealth's industrial position was urged.

A six-member sub-committee of the legislative fact-finding agency was to be given the assignment while the secretary of commerce was to serve as chairman.

The committee members were to be two appointees each of the governor, senate president pro tempore and speaker of the house.

How Local Ministers Spend Their Vacations

Vacation time is just around the corner for a number of city ministers, while for a few others, it is history as far as 1947 is concerned. In a random check made by an inquiring reporter, it was found that a variety of places and diversions have been chosen by the pastors during their annual period of relaxation away from their ministerial duties.

Among those of the city ministers traveling the farthest for their vacation time were Dr. S. E. Irvine, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church and Dr. E. A. Crooks, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church.

Dr. Irvine has chosen Tucson, Arizona, as his mecca, spending the period of July 15 to August 15 there with Mrs. Irvine. Just to keep in practice while there, he will perform the marriage of a nephew of Mrs. Irvine's.

Dr. Crooks To Iowa
Dr. and Mrs. Crooks will attend the Synod and Young Peoples Conference of the Reformed church at Grinnell, Iowa, from July 11 to 20. Following that the couple will travel on to College Springs, Ia., where they will visit friends from a week to ten days.

Rev. George R. D. Braun, pastor of the Epworth Methodist church, with his family, is vacationing at North Girard, Pa., on Lake Erie. He will be absent from his pulpit July 13, 20 and 27. Visiting pastors will speak during his absence.

The pastor of the Croton Methodist church, Rev. Owen Shields, with his family, will spend three weeks out of August on vacation. The family will spend two weeks in Chicago and the third week in Jefferson County, Pa.

At New Wilmington
Dr. J. Paul Graham will be absent from the pulpit of the Third U.P. church during the month of August. The first week, Dr. Graham will participate in the program of the New Wilmington Conference which is conducted annually in the college town. The remaining time will be spent in various spots with the family.

Rev. Oliver W. Hurst, pastor of the First Baptist church, will have visiting pastors in his pulpit during the first three Sundays of August. He and his family plan to divide their vacation among three places, Canada, Illinois and New York City. Rev. George W. Fissel of the Grace Bible Community church will take the first two Sundays of August as his vacation period. He and his family will attend the Central Bible Conference of Pennsylvania at Altoona from August 4th to 9th. Following that, they will visit relatives in Richmond, Va.

Lutheran Pastors
St. John's Lutheran pastor, Rev. A. E. Simon will take his period of rest during the month of August. He and Mrs. Simon will travel to Philadelphia and New York City.

Rev. O. J. Warnath, of St. Paul's Lutheran church with Mrs. Warnath, will travel east to Ridgeway and Philadelphia for two weeks in August.

Ocean Grove, N. J., has been chosen by Rev. and Mrs. Thomas J. Jones of the First Congregational church for their vacation spot the latter two weeks of July and the first of August.

Chautauque Lake which has been a perennial favorite for many local ministers for years will attract only one local pastor and his family this year and that being Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Patterson of the Central Presbyterian church. The first four Sundays of August Dr. Patterson will be away from his church.

To Buffalo, N. Y.
Dr. G. S. Bennett, will spend the last week of July and a portion of the first few days of August in Buffalo, N. Y., where he will attend the national and international convention of the Disciples of Christ. An illness forced Dr. Bennett to rest last winter in Florida.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance pastors in the city, Rev. J. H. Boon, of the Pearson street church; Rev. E. R. Truran of the Sampson Street Alliance and Rev. F. C. Johannides of the South New Castle church, will attend the Western Pennsylvania Camp meeting of the Alliance at Mahaffey, Pa., the latter two weeks of August.

Rev. J. Calvin Rose pastor of the Second U.P. church, has completed his vacation, having attended the church synod in the west at Sterling, Kan., and then traveling on to the west coast. Dr. D. L. Ferguson remained in the city during a part of his vacation period. A number of other pastors checked, plan only to take one or two days off and perhaps next year be able to relax for a longer period.

Free Methodists To Open Camp In City Thursday, July 31

Delays Cause Postponement Of
Camp From Original Date Set;
To Use Tabernacle Tent

Barring any unforeseen delays, the first camp meeting to be held by the New Castle district of the Free Methodist church in New Castle will open on Thursday, July 31, and continue until Sunday, August 10.

Rev. Paul R. Splitstone, superintendent of the district, stated today that work is still in progress at the old country club site and golf grounds at Scott and Vine streets, and everything possible is being done to have the camp in readiness for the influx of visitors from the tri-state area.

To Use Huge Tent
Although it will be impossible to have completed the $35,000 foot block tabernacle by camp meeting time this year, arrangements have been made to bring in a large tabernacle type tent for the first camp on the new site. The temporary tabernacle will arrive in the city on July 29 and by the following day its erection is expected to be completed.

At the present moment, workmen are busy engaged in placing the roof on the new cafeteria. Two rest rooms are completed with the exception of the complete installation of the plumbing fixtures. Water and gas already have been piped to the site.

State College Gets $8,750,000

Governor Duff Approves Large
Grant For Operation Of State College

HARRISBURG, July 10.—(INS)—A $8,750,000 appropriation to Pennsylvania State College for maintaining various schools and conducting research during the 1947-49 biennium was approved today by Gov. James H. Duff.

The sum was $402,000 less than that recommended by the general assembly and Duff explained that the reduction was made because of "insufficient revenue".

The measure was among the last bills to be acted on by Duff who has cleared all but seven measures from his desk. He has approved 661 bills and vetoed 52 others.

The general appropriation measure allocating $383,982,128 to underwrite state operating expenses, salary boosts for teachers and other public workers, and to carry out improvements, was endorsed yesterday. Duff trimmed $328,000 from the sum recommended by the legislature.

State Jurists, Lawmakers Get Salary Boost

Judges Increase Between 17
And 20 Per Cent; Up
Lawmakers' Expense
Account.

HARRISBURG, July 10.—(INS)—Pennsylvania judges and legislators Wednesday came in for their share of pay boosts enacted for most public job holders by the general assembly during the 1947 session.

Judges realized increases ranging between 17 and 20 per cent under legislation signed yesterday by Gov. James H. Duff, a generous boost over the 10 per cent line of increase advocated by the chief executive.

Lawmakers received unprecedented expense allowances of $100 a month during terms of office. They voted the expenses following an eleventh hour tussle with Duff at the wind up of the session. The new compensation legislation, used as a play-off against vital administration programs, had the effect of adding $2400 to the $3000 biennial salaries of legislators.

Six hundred and twenty thousand dollars was placed in the general appropriations bill for the expense payments which were to be made in four semi-annual payments of $600 retroactive to July 1.

The legislation, sponsored by Republican Reps. W. Henry Elder, Lycoming, and G. Edgar Kline, Schuylkill, eliminated the $150 stamp allowances for regular sessions, but did not affect the $500 lawmakers receive for special sessions lasting under 30 days. Both lawmakers' and judges' increases were effective immediately.

Increases Listed
The judges' pay bill, introduced by Sen. John M. Walker (R) Pittsburgh lawyer and endorsed by the Pennsylvania State Bar Association provided for the following increases:

Supreme court justices, from the present $19,000 rate to $23,000; an additional $500 was granted the chief justice.

Superior court, from $18,000 to $21,000; an additional $500 was granted the president judge.

Common pleas courts of Allegheny and Philadelphia counties, from $14,000 to $16,500. Salaries of jurists of the Philadelphia Municipal court and county court of Allegheny county were fixed at $12,000 while president judges were given an additional $500.

Judicial districts with a 250,000-1,000,000 population, from $12,000 to $14,000; 100,000-250,000 population, from $12,000 to $14,000; 65,000-100,000 population, from $10,000 to $12,000; less than 65,000 population, from $9,000 to $11,000.

Dauphin county court judges, who handle commonwealth litigation, were placed in $18,000 brackets while all jurists were authorized $20 a day plus 10 cents a mile travel allowances for assisting in other districts.

Associate lay judges were granted $6 a day for each day of service performed and a minimum $720 annual salary, representing a 20 per cent jump.

Common pleas and orphans court judges were authorized to appoint and fix salaries of stenographers and clerks under another measure approved by Duff. A $5000 ceiling was placed on annual salaries that may be paid court help.

Trunk Murder Woman's Husband Being Hunted

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., July 10.—(INS)—An all-points police alarm went out today for Morley V. King, 46, as the sheriff's office in San Luis Obispo expressed conviction that a trunk murder victim was his wife.

The body of a middle-aged woman was found crammed in a wooden trunk behind a hotel. A man's wooden muffer was knotted tightly around her neck.

Sheriff Murray C. Hathaway said that the woman apparently was Mrs. Helen M. King, 49, formerly of Los Angeles and New Orleans. The identification was made through dental charts and information from Mrs. King's former neighbors in the Los Angeles suburb of Pacoima.

Mrs. John R. Harrison of Pacoima said that Mrs. King formerly was married to a French count, who died in the First World War, and had been educated in France.

Vanished Tuesday
Morley vanished Tuesday. He had been operating the dining room at the hotel where the body was found for two months. Previously he had worked in New Orleans. He told the hotel staff that his wife had stayed behind in that city.

Sheriff Hathaway reported that bloodstains were found in the closet of King's room. A busboy, Willard E. Clark, said that King had inquired last week where he could get a large wooden box.

The missing man was said to have had $5,500 in large bills when seen last on Wednesday. The busboy reported hearing someone leave King's room early Thursday morning.

Rubinfoff Denies Charges That He Tricked Mother

PITTSBURGH, July 10.—(INS)—Dave Rubinfoff, famed violinist, today announced he would fly to Pittsburgh to deny charges he had tricked his partly-blind mother into signing over to him the luxurious home he purchased for her 17 years ago.

Mrs. Rubinfoff filed suit in common pleas court in Pittsburgh yesterday against the one-time Pittsburgh newsboy, now a resident of Encino, Calif.

The suit charges that last June 6 Rubinfoff took his 85-year-old mother before a notary and induced her to sign a paper which he had explained would give him possession of the home after her death.

Mrs. Rubinfoff learned later, the suit charged, that on June 7, Dave had recorded a deed turning the property over to him. The suit also alleges that shortly after, advertisements appeared in Pittsburgh newspapers offering "Rubinfoff's house for sale," and that many prospective buyers had appeared at the home.

In Encino, Rubinfoff denied the charges entirely.

Shorter Work Day On Farm

Pennsylvania Farmers, Helpers Easing Up In Comparison With War Years

HARRISBURG—Compared with wartime conditions, farmers of Pennsylvania and their hired hands are easing up somewhat in the number of hours they work each day, the State Department of Agriculture reports from a recent Federal-State survey of the current farm labor situation.

As of June 1, Pennsylvania farm operators were putting in an average of 12.4 hours per day. On the same date in 1945, last year of the war, they averaged a full 13 hours per day, the survey revealed. A year ago they worked 12.7 hours, showing a gradual decline since the peak of effort in the production of food for war, observers pointed out. Hired workers on Pennsylvania farms on June 1 were averaging 10 hours a work each day compared with 10.2 hours a year earlier and 10.5 hours on the same date in 1945. The number of hired and family workers on farms on the state the first of the month was estimated to be about the same as a year ago, the total being held down by unfavorable weather conditions. With small grain harvests coming in the next few weeks it is anticipated that the demand for farm workers will be increased substantially, the department said.

Senator Taft Doesn't Believe Bill Violated

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(INS)—Sen. Taft (R) O., today sharply contradicted charges by Rep. Hartley (R) N. J., co-author of the Taft-Hartley labor bill, that the new coal-wage agreement violates the union control law.

Taft made his statement in response to an assertion by B. C. Forbes, investment counselor, at a meeting of the joint congressional economic committee to study problems of economic stabilization.

Forbes said he believed that the new coal contract "thumbs its nose at the new Taft-Hartley bill."

Taft retorted:

"I don't agree. The whole theory of the bill is that employer and employee should be able to enter into such agreement as they wish. It was designed to insure free collective bargaining."

Taft added:

"I don't think it is a violation of the law. I don't agree that the bill tries to say what kind of contract should be made."

Hartley charged that the mine agreement contained at least one violation of the Taft-Hartley act and indicated he would seek a justice department inquiry into the new wage contract.

Seven Thousand Rent Increasing Forms Are Mailed

PITTSBURGH, July 10.—(INS)—The office of area rent control director C. Howard McPeak in Pittsburgh said today more than 7000 forms for registration of 15 per cent rent increase leases had been mailed, but he urged tenants not to sign before approval by his office.

McPeak pointed out that future difficulties could occur if the leases do not pass specifications.

"I urge tenants not to sign the new 15 per cent lease."

Among specifications cited as necessary were: no "trick" clauses, no rent boost of more than 15 per cent, no decrease in services and no option on the part of the landlord to terminate the lease at will. The latter would protect a tenant from eviction in event the house is sold before termination of the lease.

At the same time, Secretary Joseph A. Goney of the CIO-Steel City Industrial Union Council announced it was advising 215,000 affiliated workers not to agree to any "voluntary" rent increases.

Youngstown Steel Executive Dies

A. C. Cummins, 60, Carnegie-Illinois Steel Superintendent, Fatally Stricken

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 10.—(INS)—A. C. Cummins, 60, general superintendent of the Youngstown district works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., died today in his Youngstown home of a heart attack.

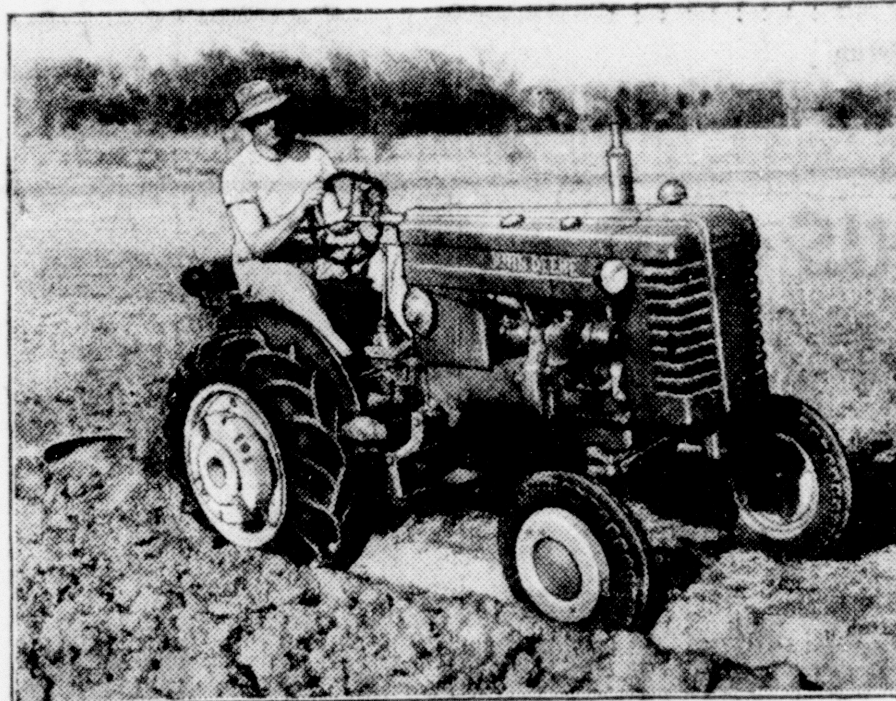

Funeral services will be held Saturday in Youngstown and interment will be in the Homewood cemetery in Pittsburgh.

Cummins, widely known in the steel industry, has been with Carnegie-Illinois since 1911, when he started as an electrical draftsman. In 1933 he became assistant general manager of the Youngstown district works and in 1940 was named general manager.

Hartwell Implement Co. Announces New Tractor

A new general-purpose tractor designed primarily for small farms is now being shown at the Hartwell Farm Impl. Co. A display announcement of the new tractor will appear in The News on Friday.

The tractor being shown here is one of the first to come off the assembly line of the new ten-million dollar John Deere tractor factory recently completed at Dubuque, Iowa. "This is the new tractor John Deere engineers have been developing and testing all through the war years," says the dealer. "It offers many of the time-proved features of previous John Deere small-farm tractors plus new power, new ease of handling, more comfort for the operator, and a complete line of new working tools that are easier to attach and detach, and easier to control from the tractor seat."

The display advertisement for the new tractor announces the name "Quik-Tatch" to emphasize the ease and speed of attaching integral tool such as plow, cultivator, bedder, planter, etc., and "Touch-o-matic" to describe the new precision hydraulic lift for raising and lowering the tools and regulating working depth.

While the tractor is sure to interest farmers, vegetable growers and orchardists with smaller acreages who are now using animal power, it also meets the needs on larger farms as auxiliary power to help out at cultivating and haying time and do many of the lighter jobs for which a team has been kept.

The Hartwell Farm Impl. Co., local John Deere dealer, invites anyone interested to drop in and inspect this latest addition to the full line of John Deere two-cylinder tractors.

Democrats Must Defend Suit For Expenses In 1940

NEW YORK, July 10.—(INS)—New York Supreme Court Justice Benvenista ruled today that the Democratic national committee must stand trial for alleged refusal to pay part of its 1940 campaign expenses.

Justice Benvenista denied a motion by committee Treasurer George L. Killion to dismiss a suit for $15,978.48 brought by William H. Rankin, advertising executive.

Rankin charged this was the balance due him under a contract to act as sole agent in placing the committee's 1940 radio advertising.

Charles Roden, representing Killion, argued that the present Democratic national committee is not liable for a debt incurred by 1940 treasurer, R. J. Reynolds.

Justice Benvenista ruled that because of the nature of the political committee present officers could be served.

Rankin previously charged he handled $621,008.70 worth of radio publicity for the Democratic national committee on a five per cent commission basis and was paid only $15,071.92.

The Plains of Abraham, a Canadian national park on the west side of Quebec, was named for Abraham Martin, who once owned a part of the land. The battle of Quebec, fought there in 1759, ended the hope of French dominance in North America.

The violent storm wrecked the city incinerator and after some discussion it was decided to seek a private garbage collector rather than rebuild the old plant. Bubble Gum Contest Held At Eastbrook

Camp Eastbrook Girls Have Big Time On Wednesday Night;
Beverly Huston Winner

Wednesday night, though chilly in most sections of the community, was permeated by hot air at Camp Eastbrook. The campers were having a bubble gum contest to see who could blow the largest bubble, and it wasn't the counselors!

Plenty of gum was supplied, and the representatives of each cabin took the stand. The winners from each five cabins then vied for honors, and some huge bubbles were blown. Beverly Huston emerged the grand winner, with a bubble nearly as large as her own head.

The prize was a candy bar. Following this a bingo party got under way, with penny candy as prizes. The grand winner in this contest was directed to go into the kitchen, where she found a box of fudge, which just happened to have enough pieces for all the campers and counselors.

Around a camp fire with a glass of milk and a hunk of fudge in their hands, the girls sang songs until taps were blown.

Tax Cut Bill Up To Senate

Measure To Give Taxpayers A Cut Next January 1 To Be Acted On

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(INS)—The GOP bill to give taxpayers a cut next January 1 reached the Senate floor a day ahead of schedule today with Republican leaders claiming they need only three more votes to override a presidential veto.

Sen. Wherry (R) Neb., acting majority leader, said he was "sure" the majority has 60 votes for his party's second try at writing the four billion dollar tax relief measure into law this year. A minimum of 63 votes is needed to override a veto.

Amendments Asked
But the outcome on veto test No. 2 was clouded by mushrooming Democratic support for amendments to boost personal exemptions and permit splitting of incomes by husbands and wives.

Senate Democrats called a party conference this morning on the tax legislation.

Minority Leader Barkley (D) Ky., was disclosed to be backing both the community property amendment of Sen. McClellan (D) Ark. and the personal exemption substitute offered by Sen. Lucas (D) Ill.

Wherry said he was hopeful that the 10% to 30 per cent tax reduction bill, approved yesterday by the Senate finance committee, would pass the Senate by Friday night. The measure passed the House Tuesday by a 302 to 112 vote—26 more than needed to override a veto.

HOG HISTORY

NEW YORK.—(INS)—For the last 57 years or longer, economists have noted that numbers and prices of hogs rose and declined in regular cycles of about five years. During each of the cycles, farmers expanded hog numbers for about two years and liquidated them for about the same length of period. The hog cycles are shorter than cattle cycles for the reason that farmers can increase or decrease hog numbers more rapidly than in the case of cattle.

Library Receives 1859 News Page

ST. LOUIS.—(INS)—A page from an early St. Louis newspaper—the Herald—recently was added to the files of the St. Louis Public Library.

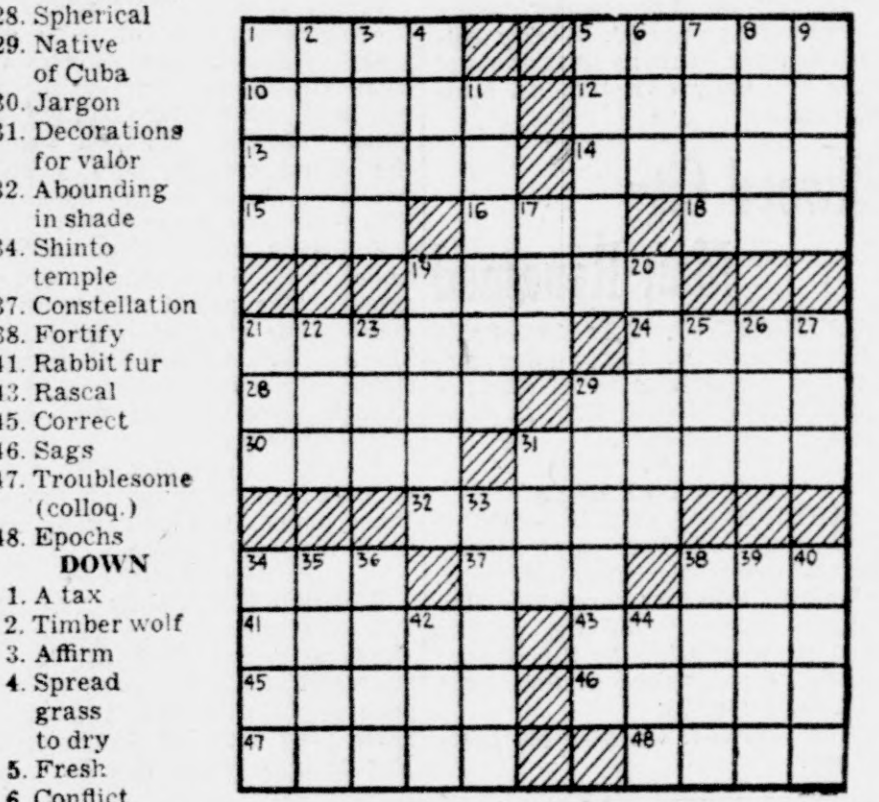

Dated February 5, 1859, the page was found on the back of an old picture by Capt. L. G. Leeds of Turfpoint, South Africa. Leeds sent it to the South African Broadcasting Company which used some of the contents for a radio program, then forwarded it to the library.

Still Fighting Indians
One item in the paper reported that citizens of St. Louis were still fighting Indians, adding that "the volunteers are in excellent health and to date have slain some 40 to 50 Indians."

Another item, under a heading "Calaboose Report," reported 345 arrests in a month.

Buy Cinders Now For Winter Use On Icy Highways

HARRISBURG.—Maintenance forces of the Department of Highways are now replenishing their stock piles of cinders for use on the icy roads next winter.

During the 1946-47 season the department used 557,581 tons of anti-skid materials on curves and grades to make driving more safe for motorists who have to use the highways in winter months.

Cinders cost the department up to $15.70 a ton. In some counties utilities give the department cinders and ashes free and the only cost is the matter of hauling them to the stock piles. Railroads in other sections also give the cinders to the department for the freight charges.

During the summer the department will endeavor to purchase some additional cinder spreaders. The mechanical loaders and spreaders are used by the department to decrease the hazard to maintenance crews in their winter work. Mechanization also reduces the necessity of the men exposing themselves during periods of inclement weather.

NO, NO, MR. MCGIVELRY, YOU'RE QUITE WRONG

Horatius Q. McGivelry (of the Spring Hill McGivelry's) is our friend. But H. Q. McG. lets his zeal run away with his judgment, now and then.

The other day a man brought in a fine watch to be repaired, saying that our friend Horatius had told him our mechanics could fix anything.

That isn't quite right. They can fix any kind of an automobile or a truck, and perhaps they do resemble watchmakers in their precision and skill, but in fairness, we have to admit that they don't fix watches.

But Mister, they sure can repair automobiles!

Army Creating 'Moonlight' For Training Work

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(INS)—The army is busy creating better and brighter artificial moonlight these days but its objectives are far from the conventional romantic ones.

Army ground forces spokesmen revealed that intensive experiments in process at Fort Benning, Ga., are designed to give night-fighting infantrymen, gunners and others brighter and safer man-made "moonlight" than they had during the last year of the war.

At the present time, technicians are aiming 800-million candlepower searchlight beams at natural clouds, artificially-produced clouds, and smoke bursts from guns and mortars to produce steady, shining and safe cover for night combat operations.

Development and refinement of this technique is expected to be particularly helpful to infantry patrols, artillery gunners, engineer repairmen, quartermaster corps truck drivers and other army men who must operate by night forward of the light line.

Experiments have shown that terrain, atmosphere and range are the deciding factors in the success of artificial moonlight operations. It has been found that a solid cloud base at an altitude of from 500 to 5,000 feet gives the maximum reflected light.

Visibility is increased if the ground is covered with ice and snow. It is decreased by fog and rain.

Ideally, the terrain should be open, although the army is said to have success with the technique in wooded areas. The ground should be high, preferably sloping toward the enemy position, while a site which hides the first 100 yards of the beam is desirable.

If the open light must be in view, the operation must be centered in a closed valley to be successful.

It has been found that maximum effectiveness has been achieved when the range is between 3,000 and 7,000 yards from the lights. Beyond the 7,000 yard range visibility is said to decline sharply.

During World War II, artificial moonlight was used with varying degrees of success by the British, American and German armies to light combat areas.

It was found that training searchlights on low-hanging clouds improved the efficiency of night operations by increasing visibility for truck movements, the servicing of artillery weapons, road and bridge maintenance, lighting the terrain for night infantry patrols and marking the front lines of aerial attack.

Disadvantages included the testimony of prisoners of war that although they were sometimes confused by the glare of the "moonlight", it frequently aided their own supply systems and gave them cover in the huge resultant shadows.

It was also noted that the beams sometimes highlighted American troops, cancelled the surprise element in attack and allowed enemy observation.

Army moonlight may not be as romantic as the real thing but at least it can be turned on and off at will.

Governor Clears Way For Veteran Housing Projects

New Law Permits Cities, Counties To Establish Authority To Erect Homes

HARRISBURG, July 10. — (INS) — Gov. James H. Duff Wednesday opened the way for operation of local veterans housing projects in line with his campaign pledge to encourage home building.

Duff signed into law legislation, sponsored by Rep. Robert W. Fish (R) Cumberland, permitting cities and counties except Philadelphia to establish authorities to erect rental homes for former service men of World War II.

The authorities, composed of five citizens, would be empowered to issue bonds or borrow funds from private lenders or the state or federal governments for financing projects.

The authorities could be established only upon declaration of need through ordinance or resolution to be filed with the State department which would issue certificates of incorporation.

The bill declared that "a serious public emergency exists affecting and threatening the health, safety, welfare and comfort of the people of the commonwealth by reason of the acute shortage of dwelling accommodations for returning veterans of World War II and their families."

Immediate measures to provide "temporary emergency housing" that would not "meet the requirements of permanent housing" were recommended.

Would Be Exempted
Authorities would be exempted from local zoning and building regulations, but the state housing board was directed to outline minimum safety and health requirements for application to temporary units.

Homes provided by the authorities could be newly constructed dwellings or existing structures "suitable for emergency housing" purchased or leased from owners or borrowed from military installations.

The governor inadvertently won a round in his fight against discrimination because of color, race or creed in provisions of the legislation prohibiting discrimination in renting dwellings.

The duration of authorities would be determined by the governor who was empowered to declare emergencies at an end by proclamation, terminating the operations of the housing agencies.

Duff signed a series of measures providing for the licensing of private correspondence and business schools by the State Department of Public Instruction and appropriating a total of $55,000 for defraying costs.

Other measures approved appropriated $15,000 to the Department of Public Assistance for payment of claims of abattoirs stemming from contracts with the State Emergency Relief board for slaughter of cattle; appropriated $95,000 to Pennsylvania State college for research in the artificial insemination of livestock; and established a $700 average in estimating travel cost of assistant county superintendents and special education superintendents.

Bill Helps Blind
Duff signed two bills increasing from $200 to $1596 the maximum annual income blind persons may enjoy and still remain eligible for state pensions of $40 a month. The combined pension and income, however, may not exceed $1596.

A companion bill approved by the governor increased from $100 to $250 maximum state aid per person for rehabilitation of blind people.

Other measures signed appropriated $1,000,000 to the Department of Forests and Waters for the development of the Delaware division of the Pennsylvania canal, required the commonwealth to pay the tuition of non-resident inmates of institutions attending public schools if the superintendent of public instruction declares their legal residences to be in Pennsylvania; further regulated cancellation of registration in boroughs, towns and townships.

POSTHUMOUS AWARD
PARIS, July 10. — (INS) — The Medal Militaire, France's highest military award, will be presented posthumously to former President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The French foreign office said today that Mrs. Roosevelt will receive the honor Monday in Washington from Ambassador Henri Bonnet.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tied kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 2 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Another Measure Vetoed By Governor

HARRISBURG, July 10. — (INS) — Legislation that would have provided for payment of retirement allowances to widows of Allegheny county employees today carried the veto of Gov. James H. Duff.

The governor said such payments would "impair the principle of the retirement fund and jeopardize the retirement allowances of other employees."

The purpose of the bill, sponsored by Sen. James A. Getz (R) Allegheny, was deemed "commendable," but Duff explained no provision has been made for payments to widows in calculating retirement allowances that could come out of the fund.

"Payments for widows of deceased employees during their lives would amount to a substantial amount of money," he explained.

The vetoed measure also contained provisions to credit employees' veterans with time served in military duty.

Clinics for grandparents may soon be as popular as baby clinics. One state has already established a division of adult hygiene and geriatrics within its board of health.

There's a flyer's expression that says: "You're born with Luck, but it gets used up as you go along." Your health can get used up, too. Especially now, in vacation time, when it's so easy to overdo things. Over-exertion—too much tennis, or golf, or swimming can be injurious to your health—can ruin your most precious possession. So before starting out for the country or seashore—why not see a doctor and get a complete physical check-up. Don't play with your health—you certainly can't play without it.

Restaurteur Claims Food Preparation For Troops Important As Training

By GEORGE MOISE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 10.—George M. Mardikian, famous San Francisco restaurateur, told the Army Wednesday that preparation of food for troops is fully as important as training them to use weapons.

Mardikian addressed the War department's food service conference—a meeting of some 175 officers from all branches of service. Avowed purpose of the conference is to improve food service and make Army chow as attractive as it is nutritious.

The proprietor of Omar Khyam's restaurant, who made a trip overseas for the Army to study service food serving and suggest improvements, maintained that "every Army officer should know something about food."

He said that junior officers and non-coms should not consider it cause for apology to be assigned to mess duties. On the other hand, Mardikian said they should be proud of the assignment and should appreciate their opportunity to aid the Army. Mardikian declared:

"Food is the only real morale builder in the Army."

Mardikian suggested that courses on the preparation and serving of food in an attractive manner should be included in the curriculum at West Point and other service schools.

Were Mess Sergeants

He admitted that during the war some competent restaurant chefs had served as mess sergeants and officers, providing a number of excellent messes. He added, however, that messes had reverted to regular Army control as the drafted experts were mustered out.

Mardikian commented: "Wait until they find out the restaurant business is a little tough now, and they'll be back in the Army."

Asked about that great Army staple, the frankfurter, Mardikian said that the only way to give it glamour was to wrap it in a bun, put mustard on it and serve it at a ball game.

Mardikian was but one of a number of noted restaurant men who addressed the conference. Among the others were John L. Hennessey of the Statler hotels, chairman of the food committee of the American Hotels association, and Arnold Shircliffe of the Wrigley Building restaurant.

Hennessey, Shircliffe and Mardikian all stressed the importance of "eye appeal" in food—making it look appetizing when served. The Army has come in for severe criticism for the unattractive manner in which many messes served food.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, in welcoming the conference visitors, said that while he had not considered it before, he believed "eye appeal" was an important factor in improving Army chow.

HONOR ROLL VETS
KNOXVILLE — (INS) — Veterans attending the University of Tennessee are continuing to hold their own on U-T's scholastic "honor roll" according to statistics compiled by the Veterans Guidance Center at Knoxville. Two out of every three students on U-T's honor list for the past winter quarter were veterans, whereas the same two-to-one ratio exists between veteran and non-veteran students attending the University at Knoxville reported the Guidance Clinic.

CUTTING RATES
BEARDSTOWN, Ill. — (INS) — Reminiscing over a price sign used by barbers in 1905, Audace Herzberger of Virginia found that the 1905 price of a haircut was 25 cents and shaves cost a mere dime. Discrimination was shown against the weaker sex since women paid a dollar for a shampoo while men paid only 25 cents.

Anti-Lynching Law Re-Enacted By Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, July 10.—(INS)—Gov. James H. Duff today signed legislation re-enacting the anti-lynching law and increasing from $10,000 to $25,000 fines against counties where arrested persons are killed in mob violence.

Sponsored by Sen. Paul M. Crider (R) Franklin, the measure was designed originally to fill in omissions of the revised penal code which was pigeon-holed in the closing hours of the session. The fines which were increased were for families of persons put to death illegally or for the commonwealth in cases where there are no survivors.

The re-enacted law retained provisions permitting accused persons to appeal to the superior court for transfer to court other than that in which they are being tried if they have reason to believe they will be denied "the equal protection of the laws" because of race, color, religion or nationality", or due to the outcome of similar cases in the district. Also retained were penalties of fines up to $1,000 and prison sentences up to a year for persons guilty of attempting to aid prisoners escape. The law made participants in lynchings guilty of murder.

Congressional Atomic Committee Ready To Increase Staff Result Of Dis-closures

ARMY SERGEANTS
TO BE PROSECUTED

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(INS)—The congressional atomic committee was ready today to increase its security staff as the government prepared to prosecute two army sergeants accused of stealing secret atomic data.

Chairman Hickenlooper (R) Iowa, revealed that the committee probably will enlarge its three-man staff assigned to study security measures by "50 to 100 per cent."

Hickenlooper's statement came after disclosure that the atomic committee senators have been disturbed within the past several weeks by world developments of "vital importance."

It also followed the report that the justice department plans to bring to trial the two souvenir-hunting sergeants who allegedly stole top-secret atomic "documents" from the Los Alamos, N. M., laboratories.

An informed source said that the "documents", which were recovered, were photographs and that one of the unidentified sergeants accused of stealing them was an army photographer.

Worried By Developments
The disclosure that recent world developments have worried the atomic members came when testimony by Chairman Hickenlooper (R) Iowa, before a senate subcommittee was made public.

On July 2, Hickenlooper told an appropriations subcommittee: "Within the past 10 days, and since submission of estimates to the house appropriations committee, a number of circumstances of vital importance have arisen in connection with the duties and responsibilities of the joint committee."

He added: "These circumstances and conditions are national in scope, and some, in fact, are international."

Hickenlooper declined in an interview to discuss the "circumstances" further. He did not deny, however, that they involved security.

Former Deshon Annex
Is Busy Community

Deshon Annex, out at Cunningham Park, which was formerly an Army project during the war days, is operating efficiently now as a civilian undertaking.

Yards which once carried grim reminders of the war that was in progress now display neat lines of clothes and former barracks, which housed war weary soldiers now ring out with the laughter of small children busy at play.

A visit to the area showed that much progress has been made at the Annex since the government has returned it to civilians, with a number of families living in the buildings and two thriving industries providing employment for a number of local people.

The newly remodeled apartments have solved the housing problem for a number of ex-G. I.'s who had almost given up the idea of having a place of their own in which to live.

On the south side of the Annex, which has turned into an industrial development, metal awnings are being made in one shop and piggy banks are being turned out in the other.

The Kool-Vent awning company, in charge of R. C. Hartman, has been in operation at the site for over a year, turning out a new aluminum type of awning. The company presently employs 18 persons which includes three crews on the road installing and salesmen for the company.

The Piggy Bank factory, during normal operations, turned out 500 banks a day, which are shipped to many Southern cities for consumption on the market. The plant is operated by Pat James and Anthony Conn, Southside boys who have named their company as the James and Conn Novelty Company.

CONTRIBUTION RATE CHANGE

HARRISBURG, July 10.—(INS)—Employers' total contributions to the unemployment compensation fund under the "merit rating" system were cut by a third today under legislation approved by Gov. James H. Duff.

Employers were expected to save more than $27,000,000 a year by the revision.

In effect, the measure halved the standard minimum individual contribution rate of one per cent of payroll loads and made corresponding slashes in percentage figures up to the maximum 27 per cent rate which was retained to conform with federal regulations. The reductions were retroactive to April 1, 1947.
